Nazis Clamp Military Gag On News Concerning Flint

Berlin Takes View That Information Invites Attack; Ship Presumably Is Headed for Hamburg.

'OWNER IS LUCKY,' PRESS TAUNTS U. S.

Battleship Would Have Been Justified in Sinking Vessel, Paper Says.

By M. K. WHITELEATHER.

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Military secrecy has been imposed on the whereabouts of the United States freighter City of Flint, seized by Germany as a contraband carrier.

So far as could be learned from official sources, the ship was flying the swastika flag somewhere en route from Murmansk, the northern Russian port she reached last Monday, presumably for Hamburg.

New High in Tenseness.

The army high command meanwhile established a new mark for tenseness in its war bulletins by issuing on this dark and rainy day a three-word communique:

"No special happenings."

(The United States this week will redouble its diplomatic efforts to penetrate the secrecy surrounding the City of Flint case, it was indicated in Washington following official condemnation of Soviet Russia's role in the incident which has raised vital questions of neutral rights in the European war.

(American diplomatic activity abroad in connection with the seizure of the United States freighter by a Nazi prize crew is expected to center in Berlin during the week because of apparently authentic reports that Russia has permitted the ship to clear her Arctic port of Murmansk.)

Beyond the word that the City of Flint was en route from Murmansk, authorities were tight-lipped.

They asserted "anything involving the ship now falls within the sphere of military secrecy, hence nothing will be said until the vessel is safely in port."

Contradictions Explained.

Conflicting information emanating from official sources yesterday as to whether the City of Flint had left Murmansk may have been caused, it was believed, by a desire not to reveal her movements.

(Tass, Russian official news agency, reported the freighter sailed last night from Murmansk after her engines were repaired.)

Nazis took the view that giving precise information when the ship left Murmansk would be tantamount to inviting a British attempt to capture her. Authorities have said the City of Flint would be conveyed by submarines and warships. From available information.

Traffic Life-Saving Puts State 2d in U. S.

City Ranks Fourth in Its Population Class; Safety Figures Reveal 10 Atlantans Now Alive Would Be Dead on Last Year's Percentage Basis.

Georgia ranks second in the nation in traffic fatality decrease and Atlanta is fourth within its population class for the first nine months of this year, the National Safety Council reported yesterday. Figures available at the Atlanta police's traffic bureau credit the city with a 40 per cent reduction in fatalities for the first 10 months of this year over the same period last year.

The safety council figures, based on nine months, credit the city with a 30 per cent reduction. Georgia as a state shows a 17 per cent decrease.

10 Lives Saved by Program.

In terms of actual lives saved, the report shows a saving of 10 lives in Atlanta, a reduction from 34 deaths during the first nine months of 1938 to 24 fatalities for the same period this year. Georgia, as a whole, has saved 99 lives by an increasing "traffic consciousness," reducing highway deaths from 596 last year to 497 through September 30.

For the first 10 months, Atlanta shows a saving of 16 lives—reducing the totals from 41 deaths to 25 killed.

Rhode Island Safest.

Outranking Georgia in fatality decrease is Rhode Island, safest state last year, showing a 26 per cent decrease. Rhode Island, it was pointed out by traffic officials, began its traffic safety campaign several years ahead of Georgia.

Leading Atlanta in the 250,000 population zone is Kansas City, which has cut fatalities exactly in half; St. Paul, with a decrease of 42 per cent; and Memphis, with a 39 per cent reduction.

Alice Brady, Star of Stage and Films, Dies; Knew Year Ago Illness Would Be Fatal

Her 'Mrs. O'Leary' in 'Old Chicago' Won Academy Award in 1938.

By FRANK YOUNG.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(UP)—Alice Brady, who could portray a scatterbrain woman on the screen as successfully as she could the most tragic character in an O'Neill drama, died last night after a lingering illness.

The 46-year-old Broadway and Hollywood star entered a private sanitarium here about three weeks ago. She was registered as Mrs. Crane, which was her former husband's name. Her presence there was known only to a few close friends until her death was revealed belatedly late today.

(For more than a year she had known that she had only a short time to live. The end came only three weeks after her father rushed her here from Hollywood for treatment for the illness (cancer) which she had realized would prove fatal. Known along Broadway

OLYMPIC GAMES MAY GO TO DETROIT BECAUSE OF WAR

1940 Meet First Was Given Japan, Then to Nazis; Then Again Changed With Finland as Host.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The International Olympic committee announced today that the 1940 Olympic Games will be held at Detroit if Finland renounced its right to stage the games at Helsinki.

The committee, which has its headquarters here, issued a brief communique saying it had queried all National Olympic committees whether they planned to send teams to Helsinki.

The communique said that if Finland renounces the games, they will be held at Detroit with many neutral nations certain to participate.

Officials who could be reached tonight said that if the nations which have been queried reply that they will not send teams to Helsinki, as many are expected to do, the Finns will give up their right to the games. In that event, new queries will be sent to the national committees asking whether they will participate in games held at Detroit.

Originally Given Japan.

The 1940 Olympic games, originally awarded to Tokyo, Japan, were transferred to Helsinki last summer after the Japanese withdrew because of the war in China. Detroit tried to have the games shifted there at that time and became a definite bidder for the 1944 games when Helsinki was named.

The 1940 winter games, also abandoned by Japan, were first awarded to St. Moritz, Switzerland, which later withdrew because of the absence of ski events on the program, result of a controversy between Olympic and other governing bodies. The offer of Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, to stage the games was accepted but when Germany went to war it was expected the winter games would be abandoned entirely.

Change Is Surprise.

Today's action came as a distinct surprise, for the Finns had announced they would not renounce the games. A short time ago, Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee, said he believed the 1940 games would be abandoned entirely if they could not be held in Finland but that a Pan-American meet might be held next summer.

"Since the time is too short for proper organization, the games will not be transferred," Brundage said.

The 1916 games, scheduled for

BODY DISCOVERED LYING ON STREET

Cause of Death of Buckhead Man Mystifies Police; Inquest Today.

The bruised and lacerated body of a man identified as James C. Brown, 28, of 1919 Peachtree road, was found in the middle of Irby street at Buckhead early yesterday morning, Fulton county police reported.

Examination showed no broken bones and no bruises apparently severe enough to prove fatal, doctors told police, and they were unable to determine cause of death in the routine examination of the body.

County Officers Otis Smith and Carl Thompson said Brown was seen leaving the Buckhead Sandwich Shop about midnight. Twenty minutes later he was discovered on Irby street near Cain Hill by W. H. Kelly, a North Fulton High school teacher.

Police Puzzled.

It is what happened in the 20-minute interval which puzzles police. Belief was expressed that perhaps he was the victim of a hit-and-run motorist, although his injuries apparently were not of that nature.

Coroner Paul Donehoo called an inquest for this morning at 9 o'clock at Spring Hill. It was not known last night whether an autopsy would be held.

Witnesses told police Brown had talked to taxicab drivers at the Buckhead station about 9 o'clock Saturday. He was seen in a poolroom, an hour later, and from 11 o'clock until midnight he was in the sandwich shop.

Ice Company Employee.

Brown was an employee of the Atlantic Ice & Coal Company in Buckhead.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Miss Barbara Ann Brown; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Brown, of Doraville; two sisters, Miss Sara Brown and Miss Margaret Brown, of Doraville; three brothers, C. E. Brown, of Lawrenceville, R. L. Brown, of Atlanta, and W. R. Brown Jr., of Doraville.

Funeral services will be at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning in Winters Chapel.

'Sheer Drivel,' He Says of Fear F. D. R. Can Get U. S. in War

Text of Glass Statement on Page 5.

By WILLIAM B. ARDERY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Senator Carter Glass said today that only one person could get the United States into war—"this wretched creature," Adolf Hitler.

The 81-year-old Virginia Democrat declared it was "the sheerest drivel" to say that the President could involve this country in a foreign conflict.

"Not Worth Thrip."

Saying that only congress has the power to declare war, Glass added that "The only person who may drag this nation into war is Hitler. His pledged word is not worth a thrip. He is a fervent believer in the immortal Machiavellian doctrine of the end justifying the means, however vile the end may be.

"He has repeatedly lied as to his purposes since the deplorable Munich conference, and it may confidently be expected that under his wretched domination Germany still regards written treaties as mere scraps of paper."

Glass granted an interview in his sickroom at a Washington hotel. The senator, attired in blue-trimmed white pajamas, propped himself on a pillow and asserted he still believed in the principles he enunciated in 1916 when he spoke against a bill which would have had congress warn Americans that they traveled in belligerent vessels at their own risk.

Doesn't Want Disgrace.

At that time, Glass, speaking of his two sons, said that he "would rather be pursued through time and eternity by the pitiful apparition of their shattered forms than to see my country dishonored and its flag hauled down in disgrace."

The senator glanced across the room at pictures of General John J. Pershing, his children and his grandchildren.

"One of my sons was gassed, and the other was a combatant soldier," he remarked.

"But a nation without spirit or an elevated soul is as bad as a derelict on the seas, and must be devoid of self-respect and unworthy of the respect of other nations.

"This country should not be content simply to eat and sleep and go to the movies. That would be a sorry contribution to modern civilization."

Glass, who has been ill for a month, said he was "distinctly

Two Flying Non-Stop, N. Y. to Lima, Peru

Two Brothers, Commander in Peruvian Navy and Captain in Army, Begin 4,014-Mile Flight Which Is Expected To Take 26 Hours.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Two Peruvian brothers, one of the navy and the other of the army, took off from Floyd Bennett field today on a non-stop flight to Lima, Peru, at 12:43 1-2 p. m. (Atlanta time.) The fliers, Commander Humberto Gal'ino, of the Peruvian navy, and Captain Victor Gal'ino, of the Peruvian army, had been waiting at the field since October 17 for a veer in the wind so they could get their gasoline-laden plane off the ground.

An airplane believed to be that of the fliers passed over Miami at 9:33 p. m. (Atlanta time) tonight and sped onward. Half an hour earlier the craft was sighted over West Palm Beach. The plane was to the east of the Miami airport, flying high and hidden by clouds.

The flight was a projected 4,014-mile, non-stop one, which the two expected would take 26 hours.

May Try For Record.

The brothers had said that they had three hours gasoline left after reaching the municipal airport just outside Lima, they would attempt to break the long-distance non-stop record for 500-1,000 horsepower planes which they said was held by the Italian air force.

Total weight of the plane was 14,000 pounds with 1,140 gallons of gasoline and 50 of oil. The men had provisioned themselves only with coffee and sandwiches.

The plane—which carried 4 lipstick "kisses" from feminine admirers and 1,513 autographs on sides—was named "Cruz o Chalpon" after a shrine in the mountain town where the brothers were born.

Professional observers at the airport said the takeoff was probably one of the most difficult and best executed in distance flight history.

Heavy Overload.

The plane's three-ton burden was a heavy overload, and the ship pounded across the field for 38 seconds before rising into the air.

The plane was a Barkley-Grow cabin monoplane—roughly similar to a U. S. Army light bomber—

PROBABLE DEFEAT OF REPEAL IS SEEN BY MISSISSIPPIAN

Margin of Victory of Less Than 10 for Either Side Is Predicted as Party Checkup Is Started.

By JOSEPH H. SHORT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—

(AP)—Faced with conflicting reports of how the house stands on the question of repealing the arms embargo, democratic leaders began a poll of their party members today on their attitude toward the senate-approved neutrality measure.

Representative Boland, Democrat, Pennsylvania, chief whip, said the poll would be completed by Tuesday, when house debate on the measure is expected to begin.

The checkup was ordered after Representative Fish, Republican, New York, disputed a claim by administration leaders that the house would approve the bill by at least 30 votes. Fish said the margin of victory for either side would be less than 10.

In a statement today, Representative Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, said the senate amendment repealing the arms embargo faced "probable defeat" in the house.

"The house will accept the senate amendments to keep our ships and our people out of the danger zone," he said, "but I seriously doubt if it will accept the senate amendment to repeal the embargo, as many members regard such repeal as a preliminary declaration of war."

Democratic leaders have been unable to make a comprehensive poll of party members heretofore because, with no business before the house, many representatives went home while the senate was battling over the neutrality bill.

An Associated Press poll of 60 Democrats who voted for continuance of the embargo last June showed at least 11 had changed their minds. Many others refused to state their positions publicly. Chairman Bloom, Democrat, New York, of the house foreign affairs committee asserted that he was assured of 21 such switches.

Confidence Expressed.

Despite general expressions of confidence on the part of Democratic proponents of the bill, Fish promised to fight it every step of the way to the final house vote, expected by the end of this week.

The New Yorker said he would wage his first battle in the rules committee tomorrow to obtain provision for house amendments to the bill.

Under the procedure that the house leadership has in mind, the measure would not be open for amendment in the house.

Speaker Bankhead announced that the leadership's plan was to send the measure to a joint senate-house conference committee to compose differences between the neutrality bill just passed by the senate and that approved by the house in June. The latter provides for an embargo while the former does not.

Bankhead indicated, however, the house would be given one opportunity to change the senate provisions.

When the joint conference is

ITALY APPROACHES ORGANIZATION OF BLOCK IN BALKANS

'Important Steps' in United Front Against Soviet Expansion Indicated by Diplomats.

By ROBERT B. PARKER JR.
BUDAPEST, Oct. 29.—(P)—Several diplomats of southeastern Europe, engaged in intense activity over the week-end, said tonight they believed "important steps" would be forthcoming this week to organize an Italian-led bloc to oppose any Soviet-Russian expansion in the Balkans.

Italian diplomacy was at work in the Balkan capitals, it was said, to arrange a settlement of Bulgaria's claim on Rumania for southern Dobruja, in order to win Bulgarian co-operation in the plan.

More Shuffling.
Should Bulgaria's claim be settled the diplomats predicted Italy then would seek to arrange Hungary's claim on Rumania for Transylvania. Transylvania formed part of the kingdom of Hungary until 1918, when it became a part of Rumania.

With the demands of Hungary and Bulgaria satisfied, it was said, those two nations probably would be willing to reach an accord with Rumania for the formation of a southeastern bloc to resist any Soviet Russian attempt to expand beyond the Carpathian mountain range.

THE WHOLE NEIGHBORHOOD LOOKS BETTER SINCE WE PAVED WITH CONCRETE

"I WISH we had put concrete on our streets long ago. Aside from being the best to drive on, it keeps itself clean, looks better, and has made our neighborhood more desirable. Property values are up."

That's not half the story. Your own experience tells you that concrete helps you to drive safely; that it effectively checks skidding; that its light-grey surface helps you see at night.

And concrete saves you money because it is moderate in first cost, low in upkeep and long lasting.

Be guided by your experience and observation. When your streets come up for paving—insist on concrete.

NAZI SHIP REPORTED STILL AT MANZANILLO

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 29.—(P)—The steamship agency in charge of the German freighter Havelland said tonight the vessel still was anchored in the Pacific port of Manzanillo despite conflicting reports that she had sailed for Mazatlan, Mexico.

Shortly after the Havelland put in at Manzanillo last week, the United States gunboat Erie arrived at that port. It was reported the Erie had kept the Havelland under surveillance for several days.

British Soldiers Like Meals Served Four Times Daily

Large-Scale Transfer to France Reveals It Takes a Lot of Bread, Gasoline, Beer, Rubber Boots, Whisky, Blankets and, of Course, Mail.

By WEBB MILLER.
WITH BRITISH EXPEDITIONARY FORCE (Passed by Field Censor), Oct. 29.—(UP)—Some of the lessons that Britain learned from the large-scale movement overseas of a modern, highly mechanized army were revealed today by Lieutenant General W. G. Lindsell, quartermaster general charged with the maintenance of the transfer.

Breakdowns were found to be less than one-third of 1 per cent. It is notable that since reports of disastrous breakdowns of German transport in the invasion of Austria, the Germans never have given any such figures.

They find that under modern motorized conditions it takes a large percentage of men behind the lines to maintain the army at the front, and that the motor transport of one corps alone occupied a continuous column 40 miles long.

Other things they find are: That nowadays a soldier requires four meals a day except when prevented by front-line conditions; that it takes thousands of pairs of rubber boots and a lot of whisky to run an army; one canteen out of 41 has sold 106 dozen bottles of whisky.

Christ and Human Relationships
Topics of Church Loyalty Sermons

Dr. Edward G. Mackay Discusses Love of the Lord and of Neighbors.

Dr. Thomas F. Harvey Talks on the Sacredness of Marriage Vows.

"Christ and Human Relationships" was the sermon topic of Dr. Edward G. Mackay at the First Methodist church yesterday morning as more than 100 churches in Atlanta and vicinity continued their "loyalty" program.

Citing the command of Jesus to "Love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and thy neighbor as thyself" in order to inherit eternal life, he declared that the parable of the Good Samaritan cuts across all social, racial, national and religious lines in answering the question, "Who is my neighbor?"

"Love of God and love of man are the two central principles in the Gospel of Christ and they are linked inseparably in the message of Jesus," he asserted.

"How can we love God? By loving the things for which the idea of God stands—love itself, the greatest thing in the world—truth, goodness, peace, beauty. As for our 'neighbors' it is true that in the days of the ancient code a neighbor was one who lived near by or belonged to one's own tribe.

"Jesus, however, lifted the word neighbor from a local to a universal application. Today it means anyone whom we have an opportunity of helping in any way and at any time. The parable of the Good Samaritan cuts across every line of cleavage."

Turkey Vaunts War Might, Celebrating 16th Birthday

100,000 Cheer Military Review Which Gave Them Sight of Artillery, Tanks, Marching Men Modern Nation Could Throw Into European War.

ANKARA, Oct. 29.—(P)—The modern Turkish republic today turned from diplomatic negotiations in which it is playing a key role to preserve peace in the Balkans, to celebrate its 16th birthday as the successor to the old Ottoman empire.

More than 100,000 spectators cheered a military review which gave them a view of the artillery tanks and marching men Turkey would be able to throw into the European war if forced to assert her guardianship of the strategic Dardanelles.

President Ismet Inonu attended the review.

The 16th anniversary of the revolution that ended the Islamic reign of Sultan Mehmet VI was considered by the Turks the most important milestone of the republic's brief history because of the general expectation that the recently concluded mutual assistance pact with Britain and France would bring great prosperity and safety to modern Turkey.

Premier Declares French Entrenchments Are 'Remarkable.'

PARIS, Oct. 29.—(P)—Premier Daladier today completed a week-end inspection of the French army in Alsace along the northern flank of the western front, where he described the French entrenchments as "remarkable."

The Premier found the front calm. Snow and icy rain forced the German patrol, whose activity had been increasing, to slow down. Nazi big guns ceased firing, in contrast to their growing force of the last few days.

As Daladier spent the week end at the front, France's "old soldiers" marched out of the barracks back to civilian life.

The partial demobilization, believed to include about 100,000 men, affected those of the class of 1910, men aged 49 and the fathers of large families who were called up eight weeks ago.

Officers and specialists of these categories were kept in the ranks, however, and the troops demobilized were ordered to hold themselves ready for recall at a moment's notice.

We stand against unwarranted price increases

*And to give that position meaning, we are right now bringing our own prices down

IN the year immediately before us, American industry must face a special responsibility.

It is the responsibility of taking a long-range rather than a short-range view of the recovery now at hand.

If that recovery is to be durable—if this country is really to go forward—industry needs to set itself to contribute more largely than ever to the economy of plenty on which the America we know has been built.

That is no easy job—for the economy of plenty is based upon lower—not higher—prices, on more and better things at lower prices for more people.

And powerful forces are at this time working the other way.

Stimulated by war, demand for raw materials is increasing. Almost inevitably prices will follow. Since August this year, raw materials as a group have advanced close to 10%—many, including rubber, are up as much as 25%.

The natural tendency will be for prices to rise—including the prices of "consumer goods," the products the public buys and uses.

This is the responsibility—the challenge—American industry must meet, and it rests most heavily on the leaders in every field.

It is not a new challenge—but it takes on new importance now.

Goodyear has sought to meet it in the past by developing a wide range of tires to fit every pocketbook.

Today, it undertakes to meet it by bolder means.

With prices of crude rubber and other materials needed in tire manufacture rising, Goodyear nevertheless proposes to enter 1940 with definitely lower prices on every tire this company makes.

We believe the reasons enabling these lower prices deserve careful examination. There can be no lasting serviceability to the public, to stockholders or to employees in prices pared at the risk of a company's economic stability. A price reduction, to be serviceable, must also be sound.

And so, months ago, we addressed ourselves to the job of lowering costs, as an essential precursor to lowering prices.

The first step was to take, as our yardstick on production expense, the cost sheets of the newest and most efficient of all our factories throughout the country.

With those figures before us, we aimed for the same efficiency in all our plants.

Next we took a look at administrative and distribution costs—streamlined our sales operations, consolidated branches and depots, realigned territories—setting up eight major bulk distributing centers, principally in plant towns, to serve the whole United States.

It wasn't a simple job or a quick one. But when it was finished, its thoroughness can be exemplified by this eloquent fact:

We are now able to offer the public the finest "G-3" All-Weather this company has ever built, in the popular 6.00-16 size, at the lowest price ever put on this tire!

The direct advantages of this move to car owners are apparent.

But the indirect advantages are equally impressive.

With lower prices should come increased sales for more than 20,000 Goodyear dealers—and better utilization of our productive resources by expanded production, with all that means in increased employment in Goodyear tire factories and cotton mills—a stimulus to business all along the line.

No man can safely forecast the future. Whether events, in future months, may force an upward revision of prices, no one can say with authority today.

But our position and policy are clear. We stand for prices as low as manufacturing efficiency, economical distribution and raw material costs permit—prices productive of wider sales and wider employment.

That is the way to economic stability, which should be the goal of every responsible business leader at this time.

ATLANTA, GA., OCTOBER 30, 1939.

"It's an Ill Wind—"

One rather surprising result of the war in Europe has been a tremendous increase in air travel between South American countries and the United States.

When the European war first broke, operators of the inter-American planes expected a heavy slump in business. Captain Harold R. Harris, vice president of Pan American Grace lines, with more than 6,000 miles of flying routes in Latin America, said recently he had fully expected, when the war came, "people would dig in and stay at home." Instead of this, however, there was a 100 per cent increase in passenger travel on that company's lines for September, compared to the same month last year, while cargoes by air have increased at a rapid rate, due to the many rush orders for American goods, placed by South American importers cut off from their European sources of supply.

Thus there is a partial recompense, to the general transportation industry, for the loss of ocean travel revenues. That this recompense is but small, compared to the loss, is inevitable, but it is gratifying to find that there are some gains, at least, to offset heavy losses.

Just how heavy those losses are may be estimated from the fact that, even under the revised neutrality act, if the arms embargo is lifted, 37 per cent of United States shipping activities, according to pre-war records, will be barred. This involves not only hundreds of millions in investment, further millions in lost revenue, thousands of men thrown out of work, but it also necessitates new and heavy expenditures for the upkeep of scores of American vessels forced into idleness.

The price to the United States mercantile marine is a heavy one. That the price will be worth paying if this country is kept out of war, no one disputes.

But, at the same time, it is good to realize that some of what we shall lose is coming back in the form of increased revenue for inter-America travel.

Creating Problems

If, as England expects, the European war lasts for three years, Fuehrer Hitler will by that time have prepared a stumbling block of serious proportions to the re-establishment of the Polish republic, which wasn't a republic at all.

With the reincorporation of the Polish Corridor and Poznan into the Reich, the German government revealed that the provinces will be made ethnically 100 per cent German. The Polish residents of the two provinces are being removed en masse to the interior of the conquered territory and their lands and possessions given over to the Germans being repatriated from the Baltic nations and southeastern Europe. Any such redrawing of the map of Europe as followed in the heels of the World War victory will then be doubly confused by this mass shifting of population, which is estimated to require three years for completion.

At the same time, a terrible problem is being created by the jamming of millions of Poles into the constricted area now regarded by the Germans as their Polish protectorate and made still more pressing by the transfer of German Jews into the same area, apparently for the establishment of a huge ghetto district. "Living space" quite evidently is for the German people without regard to that of vanquished enemies.

All of which makes more pointed the warning of President Roosevelt that the resettlement of from 10,000,000 to 20,000,000 refugees will be imperative during and following the war. It is not too early for the neutral nations of the world to be planning for the inevitable responsibility of moral and practical leadership which must be assumed in the aftermath of the battle. We have not yet arrived at a realization of the tremendous task ahead or of the inner strength which is demanded. For that we first must place our own house in order, and the time is indeed too short.

Hope of saving the situation abroad has all but subsided. When last seen, Europe, the window-jumper, was passing the 16th floor.

Fair travelers overseas are strongly advised against taking along toothless slippers, as these are useless for bailing out a lifeboat.

For dough to carry on another year, the New York fair puts the touch on Uncle Sam. How, then, does the world of tomorrow differ from the one we know?

As we've always figured the Soviet symbol, the sickle is to mow 'em down and the hammer to keep them there.

Opportunity To Help

An opportunity is offered the motoring public to aid Georgia in formulation of a scientific highway program, by co-operating with the State Highway Board's division of planning at the truck and bus "pit scale" stations, recently opened at four strategic locations.

In opening the stations, a new phase of the state-wide survey of road and traffic conditions has been started. Equipment at each of the new weighing stations consists of paved ramps leading to a three-foot-by-ten-foot concrete pit in which the axle load scales are placed, and a scale "house," containing a dial which registers the weight of the vehicle.

Data being gathered at each station include weight, length, height, width and manufacturer's rated capacity of the vehicle, the tire sizes, wheel base and commodity carried.

The information gathered at the "pit scale" stations will be of vital necessity in planning for future construction of highways. That highways are of vast importance in the modern scheme of things cannot be doubted or disputed. Thus it is urgent upon truck and bus operators to co-operate in this endeavor. And it is well to remember that there is no compulsion—another manifestation of the democratic process.

Super-Human Germans?

There is a tendency on the part of some Americans to attribute super-human qualities to the Germans. One separator from a mid-western state spoke of them recently on the floor of the United States senate as "80,000,000 highly intelligent people."

Nobody doubts that the Germans are a highly intelligent people, on the whole. They have demonstrated that in a military way, as well as scientifically and industrially. But to constantly refer to "80,000,000 of them" is just as nonsensical as speaking of 400,000,000 dumb Chinese, without a qualifying clause. After all, somebody has to dust-off the streets, carry away the garbage, dig the sewers, sweep the chimneys and perform a thousand and one other menial, as well as disagreeable, duties in Germany that call for no more intelligence than similar jobs require in Saskatchewan.

When it comes to carrying on a war, however, some of these super-human attributes stretch credulity to the breaking point. The Germans have a "ray," one confidently points out, that will positively destroy all allied air craft. Then, when the U-boat sank the "Royal Oak" at Scapa Flow it was a super-explosive that turned the trick.

But the super-human attribute which claimed a German "pocket" battleship sank the British freighter "Clement" in the south Atlantic several weeks ago, not only swore he read the name on the warship, but that it fired "50 shots and five torpedoes" into the defenseless vessel. Nothing super about that kind of explosive. One well-placed shot or torpedo from any warship in the Swiss navy would sink an unprotected freighter.

The only remarkable thing about the sinking of the "Royal Oak" was that a German U-boat got in and out of a British naval base without being detected. The most remarkable thing about the terrible German "ray" is that all scientists know about it and are convinced as to its ineffectiveness. The significant thing is the Germans don't use it.

In this matter of intelligence, however, the Germans, in one respect, stand out above all the rest: They have Hitler!

There is a sense of something missing in this strange, new war. After two months of it, the atrocity-mongers haven't learned that the foe devours its young.

The country's population of lepers is placed at only 400. This figure is, of course, subject to change as the '40 campaign descends to the personal.

Archeologists find a 3,000-year-old vanity case in ruined Ur. And a woman can't locate one dropped four minutes ago in a movie.

SHIPS AND NEUTRALITY PROGRAMS
(From The Baltimore Sun.)

No sooner are amendments drafted to prevent the neutrality program from throttling American shipping in the Caribbean and in the Pacific and Indian oceans than proposals are brought up for compensating shipowners for losses occasioned by the war and our neutrality laws in the European trade. Proposals to serve the latter end rest on a somewhat different foundation from amendments designed to serve the former.

It is entirely proper and just to frame the neutrality law so that it imposes no unnecessary handicaps on American ships. The original draft of the neutrality bill erred in forbidding American vessels to carry cargo and passengers to British and French ports in this hemisphere and in the Far East, and amendments designed to correct this error are necessary if undue hardship is to be avoided. We need to guard against ship movements in the danger zones in Europe, for those might lead to incidents and incidents might lead to war. But to restrict the right of ships to carry goods over sea lanes far removed from the British blockade and the German submarine campaign would have been unwise in the extreme.

However, to suggest that our concern for the welfare of shipping ought to go so far as to reimburse shipping companies for losses in the European trade is to raise new and quite different questions. The shipping industry enjoys a special relationship to the government, to be sure. Our subsidy program has encouraged many firms to enter this field which might not have come in but for the official invitation and the rewards payable out of the public treasury. It is also true that the shipping industry serves certain important ends in connection with the national defense. Something, therefore, is to be said in favor of a plan to compensate the shipping companies for war losses, especially to the extent that those losses may arise from the operation of the neutrality program.

But it must be noted that many lines of industry are likely to be affected adversely by the war and by our neutrality laws. If the government undertakes to reimburse one trade for war losses, others will ask for similarly favorable treatment. We might let ourselves in for a far-reaching program of compensatory legislation if we once go in for such legislation for the benefit of shipping.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

TALK OF THE WEEK WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—This week, constitutional power never before exercised by any of its predecessors. The founding fathers foresaw that some day one house of congress might wish to adjourn and the other to stay in session. They authorized the President to meet the case by commanding the whole congress to go home and reconvene on a given date.

On Monday, with the farm bloc shouting for $50,000,000 for drought-stricken wheat farmers and water-logged cotton growers, and the Republicans demanding a continued session to "watch the President," it looked as though adjournment might be voted down in the house. At the President's conference with Vice President John N. Garner, Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, and Minority Leader Charles L. McNary, the situation was discussed, and it was concluded that the senate could be depended on to disagree with the house.

The President then mentioned his forgotten power, showing considerable relish at the thought of setting an historic precedent. The leaders offered no objection to its use, and everything was planned accordingly. But the desire to settle matters simply was greater, unfortunately, than the desire to use the adjournment power. Secretary Henry A. Wallace scraped a few millions for the farmers out of a back drawer at the Agriculture Department. The farm bloc was pacified. Incidentally, several house votes were picked up for repeal of the arms embargo. And house approval of adjournment was made fairly certain.

BULLITT, EN PRINCE. As ambassador to France, brilliant, dome-headed William Christian Bullitt is America's official No. 2 diplomat, and his nightly trans-Atlantic telephonings to the White House, which the President cannot forego despite danger of wire-tapping, really put Bullitt ahead of Joe Kennedy in London. But his habits as a host are strangely princely for the leading representative of the greatest democratic power in the world. For his first Moscow party, he flew blooming tulips from Holland, had a tablecloth of growing grass and ornamented his dining room with glass cages of young animals.

That party, which was given while Moscow was still buried in snow, was named after Stravinsky's "Sacre du Printemps," the spring festival.

Bullitt's latest and probably his last, considering the war, was a great ball in Paris in the spring. It has always been his ambition to have the best chef in Europe, and he was determined to satisfy it, at least for the ball. Investigation disclosed that the best chef in Europe was in the service of Admiral Horty, viceroy of Hungary. After delicate negotiations, Bullitt borrowed the paragon, had him flown to Paris, and that evening showed the world capital of cookery such buffets, both chaud and froid, as had not been seen for some years.

AFL DESK-POUNDERS Attorney General Frank Murphy is under violent fire from the leaders of the AFL because his Rabelaisian, trust-busting assistant attorney general, Thurman W. Arnold, is insisting on antitrust enforcement in the trading trades. The building business is the biggest logjam in the American economy, and the strange practices of the building trades union are as much to blame as the "co-operation" of contractors and manufacturers. Arnold has frequently declared his determination to proceed against both the unions and the employers, and has shown he meant it by bringing a tough suit against them here in Washington.

Consequently, AFL President William Green and his general counsel, Joseph Padway, marched down to the Justice Department the other day and hammered on Murphy's table. They demanded that the AFL unions be let alone, told Murphy to call Arnold's 75 investigators back to the department, and would agree only to the Washington suit being carried to completion. If other suits were brought, they threatened, the AFL would go after Murphy in public, oppose Justice Department appropriations in congress, and impose other dire pains and penalties. Murphy put them off for the time being, showing considerable firmness. Now the Justice Department is seeking CIO support against the AFL.

DAMON AND PYTHIAS Apparently Jerome N. Frank, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, has safely survived the last of his resignation fevers. His recovery meant that the President could not keep his promise to Leon Henderson, newest commissioner, that he would have the chairmanship soon. Henderson, who has become a deeply serious victim of late, is a crony of Frank's. He wrote a letter to the White House expressing the opinion that Frank ought to stay on during the war emergency, which was a rare good deed in the naughty bureaucratic world of jealousy and conflicting ambition.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Parties.

And Parties.

The subject of parties came up the other day. And, reminiscing over what seems, sometimes, like a long life, the thought came that I have attended, probably, as wide a variety of parties, or private entertainments, as most folks.

The most enjoyable, probably, are those affairs where you foregather with a really congenial group without definite program for the evening. You eat, conservatively, of good food and drink, temperately, of good liquor. And, gradually, the conversation moves around from one topic to another, with each one present contributing passing comment, more or less serious argument, or intelligent attention. There is an occasional anecdote, more or less risqué. And you end the party and go home with the assurance that you have been one of a swell bunch and have had a grand time. But you really haven't done anything. The conversation was the fun and it was spontaneous.

This WAS

A Party.

Once upon a time I was a guest at a party given by a certain automobile manufacturing company in celebration of the presentation of a new model to the auto-buying public.

I've always remembered that, as probably, the best party of its type. The floor show was surpassingly good. The food, the wines and the service were perfection. All the minor incidentals were top-hole. There were no speeches. And the climax came when they gave away, with no strings attached, one of their new cars to the fellow whose name was drawn out of the hat. It wasn't my name. That was the only fault I could find.

Too Row,

This One.

Once upon a time we were invited to a stag party, with the promise of something rare and racy in the way of entertainment. The host said he didn't give a hang about expense, the lid was off.

So there we were in a private dining room at a hotel, some 30 or 40 of us.

At the end of the meal they cleared everything from the tables and some half dozen females, entirely sans clothing, ran in and jumped to the long table and there did what they designated as a dance. I think the guests were divided in reaction. Some were sufficiently alcoholized they didn't care, one way or another. Some stared with popping eyes and gaping mouths. And a few of us thought it too raw to be funny, or entertaining, or anything else but embarrassing.

But that wasn't all. The flesh entertainment was followed by moving pictures, from one of the portable picture machines, with a table cloth on the end wall as a screen.

Those pictures! There are men in prison today for showing the same sort of thing.

I'm not squeamish, but I left that party as quickly as I decently could, without hurting the feelings of the host.

One I

Dodged.

I recall a similar situation I managed to dodge.

This day, at about 4:30 in the afternoon, the local manager for a national firm telephoned me his big boss was in town and would like to see me. Innocently, I thought it was business, of some sort, for the paper. So said I could come to his office in about an hour. He, he replied, not the office. Come to a certain room at such-and-such a hotel. That's where they were.

So I, still sorely thinking it a cut-and-dried part of the job, went to this room.

What I found! Costly food and liquor and women, in all conditions, strewn all over three connecting rooms. They wanted me to join the party.

I explained that a very important assignment must be filled, at once, on the other side of town. They extracted a promise I'd return as soon as the work was done. Giving the promise was the only method of getting away.

Needless to say, I didn't go back. I'm no prude. And it is some-thing entertaining to read about such parties, in book or magazine. But, as for participation, I think they're messy, embarrassing and disgusting.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Delicate RENO, Nev., Oct. 29.—In approaching this subject, I feel about as I imagine a teacher does when explaining the beautiful mystery of life to a class of adolescents. Let there be no smirking please, for I mean neither to excite the economic lust of persons who are easily aroused by talk of tax economy nor to revolt the pure in heart.

Nevada is appealing to the oppressed to come here and relax in safety, meaning, however, those who possess fortunes and find themselves oppressed by state income and inheritance taxes. To qualify for these immunities it is necessary that the subject establish residence in Nevada but it is not necessary that he live here continuously through the probationary period of six months and after citizenship has been established he need not actually live in Nevada at all. He, or she, hereinafter known as he, is advised to return occasionally and vote, keep a mail address here, be seen on the streets or play a round of golf, or whatever. There is a distinction between living and residing.

For persons who are employed on salary in other states, the immunity is less lively. States having income taxes usually tax the salaries of non-residents earned within their borders at a higher rate than the salaries of residents. But persons with other kinds of income may enjoy exemption as to that if they reside in Nevada even though they actually live and conduct their affairs in income-tax states. Nevada is not the only state having no income tax. Many New Yorkers have taken refuge in Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, for example, where their dividends, royalties and commissions are exempt from the New York tax. However, Connecticut, Jersey and Pennsylvania have other taxes, some of them very high, which tend to compensate for the Nevada profits, and, indeed, appears to have no trick or trap taxes.

Immunities At the present writing, Nevada's immunities are being flaunted at Californians who have not necessarily, fortunes, but some wealth, in shape to be tossed into a suitcase or transferred by other means. California is about to vote on the ham and eggs or $30 every Thursday proposal which is really not an old-age pension at all, except in a very dishonest pretense which would soon be dropped, but a scheme to establish an income tax on other out-of-state income. A few Californians have been sneaking over the borders in the dark of the moon these last several years to escape the state income and other taxes by establishing technical residences in Nevada. There is no great rush of refugees at present because, although the thing seems to be close, they just don't believe ham and eggs can happen to them. If ham and eggs go through there will be a stampede to Nevada, which from a simple and casual start as a refuge, has come to the point of advertising and ballyhooing her immunities and developing tax evasion into a principal industry.

Incidentally, a booklet entitled "Our Nevada," published by the First National Bank in Reno, contains a chapter entitled "A State Without Radicals" which says in part that "radical" theory and un-American movements find no foothold here. This chapter says further that Nevada has no political movement of even a slightly pinkish hue and I have it on other authority of the same character that the CIO was run down the road one time when some organizers from California tried to do business among some workers on a public road project. My informant, a 100 per center of the chamber of commerce type, saw nothing un-American in the repulsion of this invasion, but a young journalist of my acquaintance said the thing made him shudder because he saw young students attached to a military organization, poking machine guns at people to break it up.

More Serious As we know, it takes only six weeks to establish Nevada residence for the purpose of a divorce, but citizenship is a little more serious matter so they require six months residence in each case. However, that one need not remain within the state continuously. As in college, one is allowed cuts and the trick, in creating a residence for purposes of citizenship and tax evasion, is to establish in law something which is obviously and, of the record, admittedly false in fact and not merely tinged with but double-dyed in bad faith.

Nevada's intentions are pleasant and mischievous at worst rather than unfriendly to her sisters in the Union. Her spirit is that of playful reproof. It may be said on her behalf that the insincerity of her program is no worse than that of the laws and regulations adopted by other states for the definition, computation and collection of taxes. The method by which Nevada would enforce them are no worse than those by which other states are driving many substantial, respectable and successful Americans away.

Another Step Forward.

Even the metal roof, drab these many years is destined for its share of industrial "oomph."

A new porcelain enameling process as applied to galvanized iron sheets elevates the "tin" roof from simply a utility to something decorative.

A Cleveland, Ohio, company has completed what it calls the first installation of its kind in the factory construction field—a porcelain enameled roof for a plant to produce enameling colors.

Porcelain enamel is a form of glass, fused to metal at high temperatures. It protects metal from rust and is not subject to decay. The metal sheets may be finished in any shade or in combinations of colors.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

AS TO TEMPERANCE Before starting off on any discussion of booze and temperance, I would like to put myself on record as saying I never saw booze help anyone or anything. I have seen it wreck a number of excellent newspapermen and, in adjacent fields, a few lawyers, doctors, bankers and, honestly, one preacher. That ought to be plain enough.

At the same time, I honestly can say I have seen booze ruin a number of persons who never touched it. They were those fanatics who opposed it to such an extent and with such utter lack of reason, they made of themselves witch-burners and psychopaths who were every bit as bad, or perhaps worse, than the man who had drunk so much booze he himself was a psychopath.

Yesterday was the Sunday of the temperance lesson and it earnestly is to be hoped we learned temperance and not intemperance. The old, but neglected argument, that temperance does not mean total abstinence, ought to be revived. Temperance is a perfectly sound word; its meaning is clear. There is no reason to try and make it mean something else.

There is too sharp a division in the opposing camps. The opposition is unwilling to admit facts. It sometimes distorts facts, as does the other side.

As a great believer in temperance and common sense, it seems to me there is a perfectly logical approach to the problem of alcohol. It is not prohibition but control, and, most important of all, education.

THE NOBLE EXPERIMENT

That period during our experiment with prohibition when agents killed persons on highways, broke into homes, searched suitcases and bags of passengers on trains, and otherwise violated the laws of the land and of decency, were rather horrible days and no one can be proud of them.

It is doubtful if any legislative experience in our entire history so degraded the national character as did this prohibition experiment. We are still paying the price for it.

We don't want to go back to those days. Yet it must be admitted the long-haired reformer and fanatic will begin to gain some strength if we do not make an intelligent approach. He is more dangerous to law and order and decency than the drunkard—but that is another story.

There are three factors which must work together if we are to have temperance. There must be control, education and law enforcement.

Package stores make for a better condition. Conditions in Atlanta are better since the package stores became legal. The fact that our police force still includes a number of venal men who permit the bootlegger to work, destroys some of the influence of the package stores but, nevertheless, conditions are better. I get around and I talk with taxi drivers and with hotel people and they agree conditions are better.

Conditions are not as bad as they were in the days of the saloon and the first thing the opposition to booze ought to do is to admit it. This would not mean they sanction booze but that they admit the intelligence of the people is improved.

There is less drinking among young people than in the days when it was smart to drive out to some barn and pay for a quart of malodorous stuff which the farmers produced from the inner recesses of the barn.

With control in effect, it no longer is smart to buy the stuff.

THERE ARE ILLUSTRATIONS

A proper educational attack is the most desirable one.

There are perfect illustrations. The Scandinavian countries once were the hardest drinking countries in the world.

They instituted controls. Norway tried prohibition modeled after that of our own experiment. It was, like our own, most unfortunate. Crime increased, especially crimes of violence. They experienced crimes they had never known. They went back to control and education.

The Swedes used to lead the world in the consumption of drink. Now they are one of the most sober of all the peoples of the earth. They have the strictest control system in the world and the most efficient educational campaign.

In Sweden some time ago I talked with government officials, with newspapermen, and with individuals. They educated people away from excess and into real temperance. They have so little drunkenness that a drunk person is an extreme rarity. They did it not by prohibition, but by control and education. They have, with it all, law enforcement. But remember that Norway, which also has law enforcement, could not enforce the prohibition law.

Near them is Holland, where some control without education exists. Holland still consumes a tremendous amount of alcohol. The Scandinavian countries have shown us what can be done.

Today we have the control. We do not have a proper educational campaign. We do not have the proper law enforcement. The package stores still have the moonshiner and bootlegger as illegal competitors.

Can we not be honest about it and admit that we cannot solve the problem all at once, as we tried to do with prohibition? And admit also that we can solve it by the only process which solves any problem—education. That requires time.

Booze never helped anyone or anything, but its enemies have never yet tried education toward temperance and control.

The Aztecs Sacrificed Humans To Their Gods, but Even They Spared Children

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

When we think of roaring guns and bombs raining from the sky, this blessed land of ours seems as safe as a country churchyard. And no other place in all the land seems as safe as a quiet, tree-shaded residence street. Yet these havens of refuge are places of mourning, for never a day passes without the careless, wanton slaughter of children who play there.

WORKING, GIVING, LAUGHING

Bill Hicks sends me a poem by Samuel Hall Young which I am very glad to have, and perhaps someone else would like to have the poem on this Monday morning.

Let me die working,
Still tackling plans unfinished,
tasks undone,
Clean to its end, swift may my race be run,
No lagging steps, no faltering, no
shirking,
Let me die working.

Let me fare forth still with open mind
Fresh secrets to unfold, new truths to find,
My soul undimmed, alert, no questions blinking,
Let me die thinking.
Let me die giving.

No sighing o'er past sins, they are forgiven,
Spilled on this earth are all the joys of heaven.
The wine of life, the cup of mirth
still quaffing,
Let me die laughing.
Let me die working.
Let me die thinking.
Let me die laughing.

And why not? I was reading

DIXIE EDUCATORS MEET HERE TODAY

Graduate School Training for Negroes Among Topics on Program

The problem of graduate school training for negroes will face southern educators gathering here today for the Southern University Conference, Dr. J. R. McCain, president of Agnes Scott college, and chairman of the conference, said last night.

Although not originally scheduled for the program which seeks to iron out plans for expanding University Center Co-operation, the negro education subject was added to the discussion because of a recent Supreme Court decision calling for equal facilities for white and negro advance study, Dr. McCain said.

Scheduled to lead the discussion at a meeting tomorrow is President Harmon Caldwell, of the University of Georgia.

Popular opinion among Southern educators is that the state should provide scholarships enabling advanced negro students to study in northern universities.

Today Dr. H. R. Mann, of the General Education Board of New York, and President H. J. Cody, of the University of Toronto, will open the conference's study of University Center co-operation practiced here in Atlanta and in other sections where several institutions of higher learning are located in close enough proximity to make co-operation feasible.

DEFIANT CZECHS FIGHT WITH POLICE

Scuffles Follow Appeal to Cease Wearing Republican Badges.

PRAGUE, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Radio appeals to Czechs to cease wearing Czech Republican colors and caps today brought further scuffles with police in the suburbs of Prague.

The Republican badges were donned yesterday in celebration of the 21st anniversary of Czech independence in defiance of a ban by officials of the German protectorate against any celebrations.

The center of Prague was quiet today following demonstrations yesterday which resulted in several hundred arrests, but new outbreaks occurred in the suburb of Siskov.

Czech authorities broadcast an appeal to citizens to quit demonstrating in "their own interest and the interest and security of their families." Prague street car service was halted to prevent Czechs from moving into the Bohemian capital, and cafes, restaurants and other such establishments were closed.

R. T. ABERNATHY SR. DIES IN TENNESSEE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Robert Taylor Abernathy Sr., retired Forsyth, Ga., farmer, died here yesterday following an extended illness. He was 86.

Full Text of Glass' Denunciation Of 'Wretched Creature'—Hitler

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, gave the Associated Press the following summary of his views on the neutrality bill:

Although distinctly distressed at my inability, due to severe illness, to be in the senate and personally cast my vote for repeal of the abominable embargo act, I derive measured satisfaction from the overwhelming vote in favor of repeal. I was paired in favor of repeal, and to that extent my vote counted as much as had it been cast personally.

I do not take much satisfaction in the inclusion in the embargo repeal bill of the so-called "cash and carry" feature. I think no other nation on earth has thus voluntarily abandoned its undoubted rights in international law on the subject of neutrality. Not in my 80-odd years of life have I known or heard of a more humiliating spectacle than that presented by the legislative body of a great, rich and powerful nation spending months in devising expedients to contravene immemorial requirements of international law through positive fear of a central European assassin. In my view, the talk about the President or any other personage in this nation "dragging the country into war" is the sheerest drivel.

Britain has the sole constitutional right to declare war; the President is not granted the power to either approve or veto the decision of congress in this respect. So that if we are to be dragged into the war or to stay out, as we undoubtedly should do, it must be by action of the congress.

HITLER IS ONLY ONE WHO CAN CAUSE WAR

The only person on earth who may drag this nation into war is Hitler, and the action of the senate in passing the "cash and carry" feature of the embargo bill was, as it seems to me, distinctly in anticipation of Hitler doing this very thing in brutal disregard of international law. No sane person conceives that either Great Britain or France is going to sink any of our merchant vessels, or ruthlessly drown any of our nationals without warning and in shameless violation of international law. Nobody has ventured to suggest that Italy or even Russia is capable of doing anything of this kind.

It is only Hitler who is expected to do it, and it is in fear of this wretched creature, dripping with the blood of women and children and non-combatants, boasting of his ravages of open towns in one of his conquered nations, that we have the shocking spectacle of this great nation relinquishing its rights on the high seas and excessively penalizing its own shipping industry for carrying on its legitimate business. We are spending approximately a billion dollars to create an effective merchant marine, and are now deliberately proposing to paralyze the industry by preventing it from going to sea except in restricted areas. Should our ships be permitted to assert their rights on the high seas, they would, of course, be subject to the requirements of international law and alone responsible for any hazard that might befall them.

Glass spoke quietly, dragging out words in his slow Virginia drawl. He still is weak, but his nurse said his condition was improving steadily.

The senator said he would have voted against the so-called cash and carry provisions of the neutrality bill but added that "the circumstances were such, unhappily, to make the action taken expedient, if not desirable."

"Nevertheless," he continued, "persons actuated by reason and not by considerations of pseudo-humanitarianism could well wish that the United States would not be taken to the verge of poltroonism."

"Even with the harsh and unprecedented restrictions upon our merchant shipping, there is no assurance that Hitler's submarines and bombers will not disregard all requirements of international law."

"This country went into the World War to vindicate its rights on the high seas, and now to relinquish these rights through fear of Hitler is to dishonor our dead. The proposition is utterly destitute of courage and moral sense."

international law. "Search and seizure" are sanctioned by all civilized nations, and our merchant marine fully understands this. SUBJECT OF RIGHTS INTELLIGENTLY DISCUSSED

This whole subject of American rights on the seas was expeditiously and intelligently discussed by the congress just prior to our entrance in the World War. Over and over again Lansing, acting secretary of state, vehemently asserted the rights of American shipping and warned Germany that we would not tolerate any attempt to violate them or any breach on Germany's part of the prohibitions or sanctions of international law. To enforce his contention, Lansing reasserted the doctrine proclaimed by Chief Justice Marshall in the Nerde case of 1815, reaffirmed time and again by the supreme court of the United States in all judicial determinations by the court up to this time. Hence had I been able to attend the senate sessions, I would, upon full consideration, have dissented from the "cash and carry" feature of the embargo bill.

However, I imagine the circumstances were such, unhappily, to make the action taken expedient, if not desirable. Nevertheless, persons actuated by reason and not by considerations of pseudo-humanitarianism could well wish that the United States would not be taken to the verge of poltroonism, as was so cogently expressed in 1916 by Senator Sutherland, since a notable member of the supreme court of the United States.

HITLER'S WORD HELD "NOT WORTH A TRIP"

Even with the harsh and unprecedented restrictions upon our merchant shipping, there is no assurance that Hitler's submarines and bombers will not disregard all requirements of law. His pledged word is not worth a trip. He is a fervent believer in the immoral machiavellian doctrine of the end justifying the means, however vile the end may be. He has repeatedly lied as to his purposes since the deplorable Munich conference, and it may confidently be expected that under his wretched domination Germany still regards written treaties as mere scraps of paper.

This country went into the World War to vindicate its rights on the high seas, and now to relinquish these rights through fear of Hitlerism is to dishonor our dead. The proposition is utterly destitute of courage and moral sense. A nation without spirit or an elevated soul is as bad as a derelict on the seas, and must be devoid of self-respect and unworthy of the respect of other nations. This country should not be content simply to eat and sleep and go to the movies. That would be a sorry contribution to modern civilization. The talk about the munitions industry dragging this country into war, either past or present, is incredible fiction. As a matter of fact, in the World War our munitions industry was utterly incapable of supplying our own demands, and American troops at the front had to be supplied with rifles by France.

Arms Sale Favored

Despite Slight Drop, Majority Wants Neutrality Act Revised.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion. PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 29.—As the administration's bill to revise the neutrality act heads for a showdown in congress, the latest nationwide fact-finding survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion shows a slight decline in sentiment for neutrality revision, but finds a majority of nearly 3 to 2 still in favor of changing the act.

In its continuous check of public sentiment on the neutrality question the Institute asked a representative cross-section of voters in each of the 48 states: "Do you think congress should make changes in the neutrality law so that England and France or any other nations can buy war materials, including arms and airplanes, in the United States?"

In the survey just completed the vote of those with opinions was:

For Changing Act 58%
Against Changing 42%

Approximately one voter in ten (9 per cent) said he was undecided about the question.

High point of sentiment for changing the present neutrality legislation followed President Roosevelt's address to congress September 21, according to the evidence of Institute surveys. At that time the Institute found 62 per cent in favor of changing the act, 38 per cent opposed.

In following weeks, however, the administration bill has been subjected to a barrage from some of the biggest guns of the opposition, including Senators Borah, Vandenberg, La Follette, Clark, Hiram, Johnson and others. The public has also heard attack on the measure by Herbert Hoover and Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh in the same period of time.

The trend of opinion in Institute surveys since the war began is as follows:

Before Roosevelt Speech 57%
After Roosevelt Speech 62%
After First Week of Senatorial Debate 60%
Week Ago 58%
TODAY 58%

To those who want to see the neutrality act changed, the question is primarily one of sympathy with England and France, the comments show. Approximately six voters in every ten in a recent Institute survey said they would be willing to "do everything possible" to help England and France win, except have the United States go to war.

Mixed with sympathy for the Allies in many cases is the belief that the United States can sell arms and implements of war on a cash-and-carry basis without danger of becoming involved, and that such war trade would benefit the American economy, the comments indicate.

On the other hand, persons who oppose changes in the act do so because, first and foremost, they believe it would lead to United States involvement in the war, and second, because they believe the total effect of the change would be an "unneutral" one.

While opinion in Institute tests has been sharply divided on the advisability of selling arms, there has been little or no difference of opinion on the question of cash-and-carry, an average of nine voters in ten approving the twin principles.

SOVIET PAPERS HIT NEUTRALITY VOTE

MOSCOW, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Three important Russian newspapers today attacked the United States senate vote for repeal of the arms embargo.

Commenting on the administration's neutrality legislation, the government newspaper Izvestia said "War in Europe was met by Wall street with poorly disguised rejoicing in expectation of profits on war orders."

"A boom already has begun but it is expected to grow. Any possibility of peace is contemplated with fear."

"This is the background of reconsideration of the embargo by the senate."

Masses Stick To Peace.
The government organ declared that only the Bourgeois were interested in lifting the embargo and that "the masses, ever more insistently, are demanding that the United States stick to neutrality."

Red Star, the organ of the Soviet army, took the same line as did Pravda, the communist party paper.

Red Star asserted the United States wanted to aid Britain and France because later, "at the appropriate moment, they will demand their share of the booty—not only in money, which they are getting for orders filled, but also in territory since they have imperialist aims."

Victory for Warmongers.
The United States senate vote to lift the embargo on trade with belligerents was interpreted by Pravda, Communist party organ, as a "victory of those who wish further to loosen the forces of war."

The root of the problem is whether the United States will help Britain and France against Germany, said Pravda, adding that the senate's decision "clearly demonstrates what the Bourgeois understands under neutrality."

GLASS USES BRITISH SLANG FOR ATTACK.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, used an old English colloquialism today to describe Adolf Hitler.

"His pledged word," Glass said, "is not worth a trip."

In British slang, trip is the term for a three-penny piece.

PRINTING ENVELOPES AT THE RATE OF 10,000 PER HOUR

LOCAL COMPANY ADDS ANOTHER HIGH-SPEED PRESS

Atlanta Envelope Company Has Grown With Atlanta and the South.

Another new high speed automatic press for the Atlanta Envelope Company was added to this concern's equipment last week. It is a machine manufactured especially for printing blank envelopes at fast speeds.

Known as an "envelope blanker" press, this machine is recognized as the standard for printing envelope blanks. It prints flat blanks after dieing out and before folding at extremely high speed in two colors. Eight other printing machines are in operation at the Atlanta Envelope Company, turning out nearly a million envelopes every day. The new press, the third of its kind in this well-known Atlanta factory, produces an average of 10,000 impressions per hour in either one or two colors.

As the largest commercial envelope factory in the southeastern states, the Atlanta Envelope Company, headed by Sig Guthman, has consistently kept pace with eastern competitors through the addition of modern machinery. During the past year three other machines have been put into operation, one of which is the new Champion Burrless Metal Clasp machine, the only one of its type in the south. Founded in 1893 by Sig Guthman, the Atlanta Envelope Company has grown with Atlanta and the south. It is now the source of supply for some of the nation's largest envelope users who demand not only high quality printing and workmanship, but prompt service as well. Although a large part of its business is done with local concerns, business houses in practically every state depend upon this Atlanta factory for envelopes.

The Atlanta Envelope Company manufactures all commercial styles of envelopes, including glassine window, postage saver, cellophane window, catalog, coin, metal clasp, metal eyelet, policy pockets, and many other types.

Atlanta Envelope Company Adds Another Press

The highspeed press on the right is another machine just installed to add to the battery of eight other presses in the plant of the Atlanta Envelope Company. It can make an average of 10,000 impressions per hour.

Baxter Maddox Agency Holds Meeting in Atlanta

Dukehart's Book Bindery Busy Spot

Surrounding himself with an array of experienced and capable bindery workmen, Mr. Dukehart, of the Dukehart Book Bindery, in the Rhodes building annex, 78 Marietta street, is finding himself and his force one of the busy groups of the city.

The bindery does all manner of machine book sewing, paper ruling, case making and gold stamping. Mr. Dukehart has been engaged in this work for the past 21 years.

The Dukehart bindery not only has experienced artists in bindery work, but has an office fully equipped with the latest machinery—the most modern available—for carrying out its work. Located as it is, in a Triple-A building, gives assurance to those who send in large jobs of printing for binding purposes that the job is well protected from fire. Not only that, his concern covers every job left with him by his own insurance.

Thus, with a concrete building, well rated by the insurance world, and with the double assistance of liability carried by the bindery, customers need have no apprehension or loss of valuable books or other printed matter left with the bindery.

ANNUAL MEETING OF BAXTER MADDOX GEORGIA AGENTS

All-Day Conference at Office Here; Luncheon at Capital City Club.

The Baxter Maddox Agency, just having completed its third all-day agency meeting in 1939 on Friday, October 27, is proud to announce many achievements company-wide among its agency personnel as was announced by the company to the agency when it convened last Friday.

Principally amongst the agency's outstanding leaders is B. L. Hollis, who ranks first in the entire company for the qualification fiscal year 1938-40 in the number of cases paid for, while Luther H. Guest leads the entire company's second-year men in number of cases paid for, and also 15th amongst the entire field force in this same category. In volume of business, Mr. Hollis stands 25th amongst the company's leaders for the same fiscal year, while Mr. Guest is 29th. Also announced to the agency was the formal notification of qualification of Mrs. Emalene Neilson for the women's Quarter-Million Dollar Round Table, being one of the south's outstanding women producers. She received her plaque for qualification in this nationally known field organization which recognizes women agents for their outstanding work.

Since the Baxter Maddox Agency was awarded the runner-up trophy for the president's award for the best all-around organization job for the calendar year 1938, it is significant to note that for the calendar year so far in 1939, the Atlanta agency again stands third amongst all agencies of the company in largest volume of paid-for business from new organization, which is the volume of business obtained from men added to the Baxter Maddox Agency since January 1, 1939. It is also of great interest to note that the second-year men in the Baxter Maddox Agency, those men in their second contract year, stand eighth in volume of business paid for amongst the company's entire group of agencies.

The company also notified J. S. Brail and Luther H. Guest of their winning a trip to the home office for an advance training course to be held in December. This was given to the 12 leaders of the company who entered the business in 1938 and is quite an honor.

The Baxter Maddox Agency enjoys the distinction of having three of its members to qualify in the month of October for the company's 1940 convention, qualification period running from May 1, 1939, to April 30, 1940. The convention is to be held at The Homestead at Hot Springs, Va., in June, 1940. Accomplishing this feat in the first five months of the period are B. L. Hollis, Luther H. Guest and J. S. Brail.

At the all-day conference held Friday, plans for the agency's 1940 quota were discussed, as well as the progress reported for calendar year 1939. Since Mr. Maddox has just been given the entire state of Georgia, the occasion of the meeting was marked by the presence of the various out-of-town agents

Install a Modern Cabinet Like This in Your Kitchen

Above is shown one of the latest installations of a modern kitchen cabinet in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Boggs, by Floyd Bros. Co., Inc., well-known local cabinet makers. They also keep a force of expert workmen busy weather-stripping many homes in the city.

FLOYDS FEATURE KITCHEN CABINETS

Well-Known Cabinet Makers Installing Modern Help for Housewives.

A beautiful, well-arranged kitchen, with plenty of convenient cabinet space, is the desire of every housekeeper. Floyd Bros. Company, Inc., at 535 Flat Shoals avenue, S. E., is adding much to the pleasure of housewives—lightening the burden of kitchen work—these days by their installation of the very latest in modern kitchen cabinets, one of them being shown on this page, representing the Baxter Maddox Agency over the state of Georgia, and it marked the formal merging of the agency personnel over the entire state.

During the day luncheon was enjoyed at the Capital City Club, at which time W. B. Farnsworth, merchandise sales manager of the Georgia Power Company, addressed the meeting on "Sales Technique."

The Connecticut Mutual has experienced so far this year a 6 per cent increase in paid-for business over the same period for 1938 and enjoys the distinction of being one of 15 companies which has over a billion dollars of life insurance in force, and of marked interest is the fact that the company itself is 94 years old.

Mr. Maddox states that there is an opening for one man in the agency for January 1 and anyone so interested is requested to contact Mr. Maddox to apply for the opening.

cently installed in the pretty new home of L. J. Boggs, at the corner of Matheson and Alberta drives, N. E.

The one shown covers the complete side of a light, airy and roomy kitchen, and in addition to small cabinets above, all filled with shelves for every utensil, there is a long row of shelving and handy conveniences arranged at the bottom. Shelves for silverware, for bread bins, for flour, shelves and racks for large dishes and platters—in fact, a place for everything used in the kitchen. Cabinets made by the Floyd concern are of the best materials, the workmanship is exact, drawers open and close with ease, and when finally installed, any size or shape to best suit the arrangement of the kitchen, they are painted any desired color, and the addition in conveniences and in beauty makes their installation a joy to the housewife.

Call these well-known cabinet makers and let them send a representative out to measure up your kitchen and give you estimates as to the cost of building and installing one of their modern, well-built cabinets.

In addition to kitchen cabinet work, Floyd Bros. Company are specialists and adepts in weather-stripping. Many homes that appear well-built and secure from the cold blasts of winter will let a lot of cold air creep in. Weather-stripping, properly placed on, just as Floyd Brothers do it, will take care of this uncomfortable wintry breeze. You might be surprised as to just how reasonable this matter can be attended to, and certainly will feel much more comfortable for the winter, once this cabinet concern has applied its weather-stripping to your home.

HOLD CONVENTION

the men of 1776—are willing to acknowledge the self-evident truth that all men are created, and that all men are created equal," he declared.

During the morning session, delegates passed resolutions deploring "particularly that spirit of anti-Semitism, a spirit which is un-Christian and un-American." The press of Georgia was commended for "general recognition of the threat which atheistic radicalism is and has been to the institutions of our nation, and for its devotion to the principle that all concepts of government which holds man was made for the state instead of the state being made for man, as being foreign to the American spirit and ideals."

Broderick Elected.
Dr. J. Reid Broderick, of Savannah, was elected president of the association, succeeding Alfred M. Battery, of Augusta, president for the past six years.

"Americans who regard constitutional protections as secular things, who think that democracy divorced from God can save them from the totalitarian strait-jacket are living in a fool's paradise," Dr. Manion declared. "Liberty in America will be saved by the same simple faith through which and by which American liberty was begun, namely, by the universal acknowledgment of God as the Author of liberty, and democratic government as the protective agents of the God-given rights of liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

"If we believe the self-evident truths of the Declaration of Independence, we must concede that human dignity, human liberty and human rights belong to the individual precisely because he is a creature of God. Our government does not respect the human liberty and human dignity of the individual merely because it is the decent thing to do; our government protects human liberty and human dignity precisely because man, as a child of God, is entitled to that protection from his government."

It was the substitution of the rights of nations for the rights of man four hundred years ago by European governments that sent thousands of exiles to America, he remarked.

Revolt Against Paganism.
"The American Revolution was fought to destroy the pagan philosophy of the completely secular state; the pagan principle that there is no authority higher than men's government."

"The success of the American revolution not only made us an independent country. This effect, however salutary, was secondary. The primary importance of the revolution was its clear cut victory for the spirituality in the indestructible personality of the individual human soul."

Dr. Manion was introduced by William H. Schroder Jr., grandson of the late Colonel Jack J. Spalding, past president and one of the founders of the association.

Four Are Memorialized.
Colonel Spalding, James J. Haverty, former honorary president; R. W. Hatcher, of Milledgeville, a former vice president, and James Harvey, of Atlanta, were memorialized by the association. The four men died during the war.

The convention opened with a pontifical mass at the Co-Cathedral of Christ the King, and closed with benediction of the Blessed Sacrament and a Holy Name rally on Marist campus. Most Rev. Gerald P. O'Hara, bishop of Savannah-Atlanta, who has recently returned from his Ad Limina visit to Pope Pius XII, gave the Papal blessing to the throng at the opening services.

Officers elected to serve with Broderick were Bernard J. Kane, of Atlanta, first vice president; Richard Reid, of Augusta, executive secretary; Miss Cecile E. Perry, of Augusta, financial secretary; John B. McCallum, of Atlanta, recording secretary; Thomas F. Walsh, of Savannah, treasurer, and Alvin M. McAuliffe, of Augusta, auditor.

Clarence Haverty, of Atlanta, and Alfred Battery, of Augusta, were named co-chairmen of the committee on finance.

State vice presidents elected were Mrs. Raymond Watkins and Hughes Spalding, Atlanta; Bernard Fahy and Miss Margaret Miller, Rome; Dr. T. H. McHatten and Mrs. E. A. Sheridan, Macon; R. E. McCormack and Miss Mary L. Brosnan, Albany; E. J. O'Connor and Miss Anna Rice, Augusta; John P. Touhey and Mrs. J. C. Stiles, Brunswick; Louis C. Kunze and Mrs. H. C. Smith, Columbus; E. J. Brennan and Miss Clare Deimel, Fitzgerald; M. J. Callaghan and Mrs. E. A. Sheridan, Macon; R. W. Hatcher Jr. and Mrs. J. A. Horne, Milledgeville; Mrs. J. C. Butler, Cordele; J. P. Houlihan and Mrs. J. P. McDonough, Savannah; George Poche and Mrs. F. W. Gilbert, Washington; E. M. Hengarty and Mrs. J. W. Cason, Waycross.

Georgia is second in traffic safety. Sullivan last night said he was "extremely pleased" at the news placing Georgia second in death reduction. "We've been trying hard to get up near the top," he said, "and now we're going to try even harder to stay there. I hope our record improves as much in the next two years as it has in the past two."

Captain Jack Malcom, of the Atlanta police traffic department, said: "By January 1 we hope to be in first place in death reduction. We've got a good chance to do it if Atlantans continue to cooperate and our luck holds out. Last winter was a bad one for us and if this winter shows continued improvement we'll have fatalities decreased by 25 or more."

Finns Sing Star Spangled Banner,
Paying Tribute to U. S. 'Sympathy'

Swedish, Danish, Norwegian Ministers Also Serenaded as Nation Enters Week of Critical Negotiations With Soviet Russia.

HELSINKI, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Finns paid tribute today to United States "support and sympathy" as the nation entered a critical week of negotiations with Russia. Nearly 300 stood outside the hotel of United States Minister H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld and sang the "Star Spangled Banner." Later they serenaded Swedish, Danish and Norwegian ministers.

It was believed the instructions to be taken to Moscow Tuesday night by Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi and Finance Minister Vaino Tanner were nearing completion. The cabinet met for four hours today. "The time is difficult again," Urho Tuovola, chief of the press department of the foreign affairs ministry, said to Schoenfeld after the demonstration. "We feel our freedom and independence are threatened. Again today we are conscious of the fact America and its leading men are giving their support to us," Tuovola stated.

He recalled that "America stretched a helping hand" to Finland when she obtained her independence from Russia 20 years ago.

mation, observers believed the freighter should be heading down the Norwegian coast toward the Skagerrak, between Norway and Denmark.

Owners Lucky, Says Press.
The Frankfurter Zeitung asserted in an editorial today that Germany seized the ship legally and that Russia released her legally to Germany after the prize crew put into Murmansk harbor, "because the ship was unseaworthy."

The owners were lucky, in the battleship Deutschland did not sink the freighter when she was seized in the Atlantic.

Germany would have been justified in sinking her, the newspaper said, if the City of Flint's condition "hampered the warship's operation or presented any danger."

MASTER IS SAFE
BERLIN TELLS WIFE

MELROSE, Mass., Oct. 29.—(AP) Although as ignorant of the whereabouts of the United States freighter City of Flint as government officials, Mrs. Joseph A. Gainard said tonight the German government had informed her that her husband, master of the seized vessel, was safe and well aboard the ship.

Mrs. Gainard said that Dr. Herbert Scholz, German consul in Boston, gave the message by telephone.

Captain Gainard's wife had cabled Berlin and Moscow asking for assurances of her husband's safety.

BRUNDAGE NOT TOLD OF PROPOSED CHANGE

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee, said today "There must be some mistake" when informed the international committee had announced that the 1940 games would be held at Detroit if Finland renounced its claim.

Upon hearing of the committee's announcement, made at its headquarters at Lausanne, Switzerland, Brundage commented: "The committee would not award the games to Detroit without consulting us and we've heard nothing about it."

Brundage added that since Finland had not yet renounced its right to stage the games at Helsinki, all investigations for a possible site had been informal.

MAYOR SAYS DETROIT
WOULD WELCOME GAMES

DETROIT, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Word that the 1940 Olympic games might be transferred from Helsinki, Finland, to Detroit, aroused conflicting opinion here tonight.

Mayor Richard Reading asserted that the city would "welcome the games with open arms" and present a "mighty Olympiad even if the present warring nations do not participate."

Cites Lack of Time.
Frederic C. Matthai, whom Reading appointed chairman of the committee to obtain the Olympics for Detroit, said that he doubted the city would be interested in holding the 1940 program.

"First," said Matthai, "there is not sufficient time to make plans for a bang-up Olympiad the equal of those held in recent years. And second, a track meet without France, Great Britain and Germany in the competition would not be much of an attraction."

"I believed Finland would hold on to the games as long as any chance of staging them remained," Matthai said. "Finland has a tremendous investment in the games and it may mean bankruptcy for someone if they are not held."

Reading pointed to the fact that an Olympic organization already exists in Detroit.

"We have the finances and the talent in Detroit to stage an Olympiad," Reading said. "I know that we can lick the time element in making our preparations because our plans are already mapped."

of the International Olympic Committee's action in designating Detroit for the 1940 Olympic games, should Finland renounce it claim, reached here too late tonight for official comment.

But the feeling was general that Finland would be extremely reluctant to relinquish the games until the impossibility of holding them had been demonstrated beyond doubt.

Right through the critical days of Finland's negotiations on Russian diplomatic demands, workmen have gone ahead with building a tremendous plant for the games, which are scheduled for July 30 to August 4.

MURPHY ORDERS $300,000 GIVEN BACK TO BERGDOLL

$200,000 of Fortune Set Aside for U. S. Income Taxes Famous Draft Dodger May Owe.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Attorney General Murphy has ordered the return to Grover Cleveland Bergdoll of property appraised at slightly more than $300,000, the Justice Department announced today. The famous draft dodger's fortune was seized after he escaped from a military guard in 1920 and fled to Germany.

The announcement fixed at $335,540 the appraised value of Bergdoll's property now held by the attorney general as successor to the alien property custodian. Of this amount, $200,000 has been set aside for income taxes that may be owed. In addition, Bergdoll has consented to temporary retention by the government of 20 per cent of the value of his property as required of persons of German nationality or stateless persons under the trading with the enemy act.

Department Explains. The department explained that while these deductions would not leave $300,000 for Bergdoll the taxes undoubtedly would be considerably less than $200,000. Bergdoll was serving a five-year term for draft evasion at the time of his escape. He voluntarily returned to the United States a few months ago and was convicted by a military court martial of desertion and escape. Three years were added to his previous sentence.

Bergdoll's property was seized under the trading with the enemy act. The act precludes the return of such property to a person who is a fugitive from justice, but when he surrendered to military authorities this obstacle to return of his property was removed.

Born in United States. Bergdoll was born in the United States and the justice department contended that he acquired German citizenship during his long residence in Germany. The law, the department said, permits the return to him of 80 per cent of the property upon his consent to retention by the government of 20 per cent whether he is a citizen of the United States or a stateless person. The attorney general made no determination concerning Bergdoll's present citizenship.

The 20 per cent will be held subject to call of the secretary of the treasury for deposit in the German special deposit account, created in 1928 to provide for satisfaction of awards of the German-American mixed claims commission, or to be entered in favor of American claimants against Germany for damages arising from the World War.

PRO-RED STUDENTS QUIETED BY POLICE

BELGRADE, Oct. 29.—(AP)—A student demonstration in the capital streets in favor of Soviet Russia and against Great Britain and France was halted quickly by police this morning.

A group of about 300 students from Belgrade University staged a similar demonstration two days ago.

Police minimized the incident, declaring the students were "victims of pan-Slav propaganda."

Built To Conquer Polar Snows, Byrd's Cruiser Yields to Ohio Mud

Admiral Byrd's 35-ton, 60-foot, $150,000 snow cruiser, designed to conquer Antarctic ice floes on his next expedition, bumped into a bridge rail and toppled into a creek near Lima, Ohio, Saturday. It was en route from Chicago to Boston to go aboard the Polar exploration ship Bear. Several days will be required to get it rolling again on its giant wheels.

BYRD'S 'ICE BUGGY' STILL STUCK IN MUD

Thousands Mill at Scene as Difficult Raising Job Gets Off to Slow Start.

LIMA, Ohio, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The difficult feat of raising Admiral Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic snow cruiser from a creek bed got off to a slow start today as thousands of spectators milled about the scene.

The seven-man crew sought to jack the 55-foot long "ice buggy" into position to move it up a wooden ramp and into a pasture. It struck a highway bridge and angled off into a ten-foot gully yesterday on its delivery run from Chicago to Boston. No one was injured.

Dr. Thomas Poulter, Armour Institute scientist and designer of the cruiser, said the impact broke the complicated steering mechanism, causing the steel juggernaut to drop into the mud and shallow water of Pine Run at nearby Gomer.

Witnesses said the pilot, F. A. Wade, took over controls for the first time about 10 miles from the accident scene, failed to make sufficient allowance for a slight turn in the approach to the 24 1-2 foot wide span, with the result that a wheel of the 20-foot wide giant ground into the bridge side. Crewmen got the monster on an even keel and said the cruiser's engines could raise the 10-foot retractable wheels about four feet. Shoring will be placed under the craft's nose, then under the wheels, and the operation repeated until it can roll into the pasture, they said.

Belief that the cruiser would be on its way by Tuesday was expressed by Dr. Poulter.

N. Y. EDITOR DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Death of Harvey Deuell Occurs While Driving.

TEA NECK, N. J., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Harvey Deuell, 49, managing editor of the New York Daily News, died of a heart attack today while driving alone through this township.

Dr. William J. McKeever, of Holy Name hospital, where Deuell was taken after his car left the road, mowed down six cable guardposts and landed right side up at the bottom of a 10-foot embankment, said a heart attack was the cause of death.

The front of Deuell's car was damaged. There were no signs he had received any bodily injury. Deuell lived in Cornwall, N. Y. He is survived by his wife, the former Peggy Howe. They had no children.

Deuell was one of the highest paid newspaper executives in the nation. A treasury report to the house ways and means committee in Washington showed his salary was $140,400 for 1936.

STABILIZATION FUND PAYS $5,181,203 PROFIT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The treasury's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund made $5,181,203 profit above running expenses in the fiscal year which ended last June 30.

Profits since the fund was created in 1934 total $15,055,650. Reporting the profit today the treasury said it was made through collection of handling charges from foreigners selling gold to this country, interest on government bonds owned by the fund and profits on dealing in foreign currencies.

Aviator-Slayer Tells Story Of Battle While Plane Dived

Indiana Barnstormer En Route to Missouri To Face Murder and Theft Charges After Confessing to Aerial Slaying of Flying Instructor.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Accompanied by three Indiana state policemen, 29-year-old Ernest P. Pletch, barnstorming Hoosier aviator, began shortly before 4 p. m. a 58-mile automobile ride to the Illinois state line, where he is to be placed in the custody of Missouri officers for the airplane-ride slaying of Carl Bivens, Brookfield (Mo.) flying instructor.

State Police Superintendent Don F. Stiver said Pletch, who confessed last night to the shooting of Bivens during a desperate struggle in their yellow airplane high above eastern Missouri Friday, would be handed over to Missouri highway patrol officers along U. S. Highway 36 near Dana, Ind. The curly-haired erstwhile ordered, a motion will be entertained to give specified instructions to the conferees as to what they shall insist on in behalf of the house.

Will Propose Instructions.

Fish said he would propose such instructions, if he fails in his effort to have the rules committee open the bill wide to any and all house amendments. One instruction that he will propose, he said, will be that the conferees include in the bill's final draft the same arms embargo provision which the house voted, 214 to 173, last summer.

The New Yorker also indicated that he would ask the rules committee for a provision for at least 20 hours' debate. Two or three days have been indicated as the likely extent of the debate.

Representative Luther A. Johnson, of Texas, ranking Democrat on the foreign affairs committee, forecast in a radio speech tonight that repeal of the arms embargo would be followed by a heavy tax on munitions makers.

"To those who fear that the repeal of the arms embargo might result in huge profits to the munitions makers," he declared, "let me say that if the arms embargo is repealed, I shall favor, and I am assured that legislation will be enacted, to levy such a high tax on munitions makers that it will prevent profiteering in those commodities."

Munitions Makers Know.

"The munitions makers know this to be true, and for that reason there is no active support on their part for the legislation to repeal, and some of them are even opposing its repeal."

Johnson said that "while the house leadership promises liberal debate" on the neutrality bill, "it is our hope that within a week's time the measure may be finally passed and become a law."

"If the present partial neutrality law is not changed or amended," he added, "the United States is certain to be in this war, and that within a very short time."

NAZI NAVAL DEAD HONORED BY ALLIES

Six Found in Sea Placed in One Grave.

DUNKERQUE, France, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Six German navy men whose bodies were found floating in the sea near here were buried in a single grave today with full honors of the French and British navies.

The French said discovery of the bodies established proof of the destruction Thursday of a German submarine. Both the French and British navies placed wreaths on the caskets, draped with German colors and ornamented with an iron cross.

A French marine firing squad paid final tribute to the enemy dead as the bodies were lowered into the grave after services by a Protestant pastor and Catholic priest.

Bodies of a German officer and three sailors were picked up at sea by a fishing trawler while the other two bodies were washed ashore at this seaport city near the Belgian border.

First Russian Troops REACH LATVIAN LINE

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The first trainload of Russian troops arrived today at the frontier station of Zilupe, under the Russian-Latvian pact which gave Russia naval and military concessions.

farm youth, clad in blue overalls, apparently was in good spirits when he left the jail where he had been kept overnight. He called "good-bye" to Marion county sheriff's deputies as he entered the state police automobile.

Shortly before the Frankfort man was removed from jail, he visited for nearly 20 minutes with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Pletch, well-to-do Clinton county farmers.

Deputy Sheriff James Martin related the parents told their son, "Try to make your peace with God—that's the only thing left."

Faces Theft, Murder Writs.

Pletch, who had been free under bond pending outcome of a trial on charges of airplane stealing at Frankfort, Ind., last June, waived extradition to Missouri, where, Stiver said, murder and airplane theft charges had been placed against him.

A vivid story of the shooting which closed an argument in the air over eastern Missouri was unfolded in a 1,000-word confession signed by Pletch after slightly more than two hours' grilling. He was arrested by state police after he made a forced landing in a yellow monoplane near Bloomington, Ind., early last night.

Thirty-eight-year-old Bivens and Pletch took off from Brookfield, Mo., Friday morning, and the former's body was discovered in a thicket near Cherry Box, Mo., last night.

Pletch related in the signed statement he received "an hour and a half instructions" from Bivens in the plane which the Indiana man later flew over three states—Missouri, Illinois and Indiana. Then, Pletch said he proposed that they "go to Mexico, to which Bivens, 'after studying for a while,' agreed."

Asked If Had Gun.

Going aloft immediately, the duo headed east because Pletch "wanted to visit my folks at Frankfort." Asked by Bivens if he was armed, Pletch rejoined he "carried a gun with the intention of trading it for gasoline if necessary."

"Bivens then stated that he was withdrawing from our plan to steal the plane," ran the confession, "and also said that he was going to land the plane and 'turn me in.'"

"I told him that he was as much responsible for the plan as I and that he was not going to double-cross me. We began arguing then and both of us became madder and madder."

"At this time Bivens was in the front seat of the plane and I was in the rear. Both of us were handling the controls. After we had argued for a while Bivens reached back at me with his right arm and pulled me forward."

Plane Power Dives.

"As he pulled me forward my body pushed the control stick forward and the plane went into a power dive. We grappled for a few seconds and I realized if we kept on fighting we would crash."

"I pulled the revolver, which was in my pants pocket, and fired two shots, both of which hit him in the back of the head. . . His body slumped forward on the controls, causing the plane to continue its dive. I reached forward and pulled his body back away from the controls and after a few seconds I got the plane straightened out."

Leaves Body by Fence.

Within 15 minutes, Pletch related, he "sighted a suitable looking field," and landed the plane. He taxied near a fence, "got out and placed Bivens' body near the fence" and then "took off again."

After staying overnight at a Missouri farm home, Pletch flew to Indiana Saturday, landing north of here for gasoline and circling above the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Pletch, near Frankfort. Several hours later he landed in a pasture south of Bloomington.

Pletch took a pretty 17-year-old girl, Goldie Gehren, of Vernon, Ill., on a five-day flying trip through Missouri and Illinois last summer while begging her to marry him. Arrested in Missouri after releasing the girl, a charge of stealing the airplane from a Frankfort, Ind., airport owner was placed against him. He was to have been tried next week.

with a cruising speed normally (considerably reduced on this flight) of 150 miles an hour.

It was the same ship in which Alex Pampana, Rumanian aviator, cracked up twice last summer on preliminary flights for a non-stop hop to Rumania. He returned to Rumania before making it, and was reported killed mountain climbing.

The route is:

New York to Miami to Cienfuegos, Cuba, to Cuman Island in the Caribbean, to Cristobal, Canal Zone, to David, Nicaragua, and then a long ocean flight to Peru.

The plane's fuselage bore the Peruvian air force motto "Arriba Siempre Arriba" ("Higher, Always Higher") and on the nose of the plane was painted a map of the Americas.

They took a letter of greeting from Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia to President Oscar Benavides, of Peru.

PARLIAMENT MEMBER IS FOUND DEAD IN BED

LONDON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Lieutenant Colonel Anthony John Muirhead, 48-year-old member of parliament, was found dead in bed today at his Oxfordshire home.

Muirhead, who had been in poor health for several weeks, was undersecretary for India until the recent cabinet shuffle immediately after the war started.

Geologists Find New Industry In Georgia Stone

An opportunity was pointed out yesterday for Georgia to get in on the ground floor of a developing new industry—the production of rock wool.

This product—a soft, white fluffy material used to insulate homes against summer heat and winter cold—is made from wool rock, an impure type of limestone. It also may be produced from certain other rocks.

State Geologist Garland Peyton reported an ample supply of raw material is found in northwest Georgia, sections of the Piedmont area and in south Georgia. He mentioned the Rome-Cartersville area, the Tate marble belt, the marble belt running from Gainesville to Cornelia and Houston, Twigg, Wilkinson and Washington counties.

He added that he and his staff are convinced "there is ample opportunity and justification for an adequately financed company to produce rock wool in Georgia for our southern markets."

NAZIS ADMIT BRITISH FLYING OVER GERMANY

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—(UP)—British scout planes have been sighted over central and southern Germany on several nights last week, responsible German sources admitted today.

There has been no official announcement of these visits.

One night three or four British planes flew over Hanover but the cloud ceiling was so low it was impossible for German searchlights to reach them and the planes escaped.

drama, "Mourning Becomes Electra."

Miss Brady, daughter of William A. Brady, famous theatrical producer, and Rose Rene, a French singer, was born to the theater. She wanted to be an actress but her father persuaded her at first to become a singer. After studying at the Boston Conservatory of Music she made her stage debut in 1911 under the name of Mary Rose in the operetta "The Balkan Princess." She was then 19. When the show came to New York a short time later she played under her own name.

Stars in 50 Plays. In the 28 years she appeared in the theater, Miss Brady was starred in more than 50 plays including several of the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas.

In 1918 she returned to the stage, after a series of silent pictures, and appeared in "Forever After," which was her most successful play and ran for two years in New York.

She returned to the films in 1921, alternating between the movies and the stage the rest of her life. Although her last stage appearance was in 1934, her father had hopes to present her in a new play this season.

RICH'S

Here's Help In Slipping Off Your Coat of Faded Summer Tan

Autumn colors look twice as becoming on Dorothy Lamour because of her soft skin with its clear glowing look. Miss Lamour is featured in the Paramount picture, "Disputed Passage."

Give Your Skin New Softness And Clear Glowing Look

By LILLIAN MAE.

Truly summer's gone, but its disastrous effects linger on and on—unless you know how to whisk off the sallow, muddy, slow-disappearing tan and sun-dried, flaky effect.

The woman who has contributed perhaps more loveliness to women than any other single person in the world, has developed a banish-tan treatment that is as beneficial as it is effective. Use her scientific bleaching treatment in place of your regular beauty routine for a few weeks, and you'll find your skin clear, fine and fair-textured again.

First you must cleanse, of course, but instead of your usual cleansing agent, you must use a special bleaching cream with unusual clarifying properties. Mold it well into your skin and when removed five or ten minutes later, you'll see that it not only has cleared every bit of dust and stale make-up but that it has also brought out a new clarity and radiance.

Then smooth on a bit of skin clearing cream. Mold it between your fingers and stroke it lightly over your face. Leave it on for an hour or more. In the meantime your circulation is being stimulated, sluggish action of your pores is being counteracted and your skin is acquiring a new elasticity and a finer texture. You will soon notice a fading away of that drab, sallow look it has had.

Treatment for Deeper Tan.

If you are still very deeply tanned, you'll need a more intensive treatment. First, a cleansing cream which is bleaching in effect, then a few strokes across your face with cotton which has been dipped into a unique bleaching stimulant the two-fold action of which will hasten nature's reconditioning process. This is also effective for discolorations and "moth patches." It should be followed with a night cream I'll tell you about, which cream will correct while you sleep, the roughened, parched look which most certainly mars anybody's beauty.

Follow one of these treatments and you can skip that ugly in-between stage and your skin will have a new softness and clear glowing look which will make the new autumn colors twice as becoming.

Phone me for either the regular or the more intensive treatment, depending upon whether your tan is in the drab stage, or still very deep. If you do not live in Atlanta write me, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Know What Card To Play From Dummy

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Knowing what card to play from dummy to opponent's opening lead against notrump contracts, has always been an important phase of bridge technique.

The card to play is usually influenced by the cards of the led-suit held by closed hand.

DUMMY FINESSES.

In the following suit holdings, assuming the opening lead is a low card, the card indicated by brackets () is the card to play from dummy:

(K) 2	K 3 (2)
N	W E
W	S
5 4 3	6 5 4
K (J) 2	K (10) 2
N	W E
W	S
5 4 3	5 4 3
K (9) 2	K (8) 2
N	W E
W	S
5 4 3	5 4 3

When the only honor-card held by dummy is the Queen, the same technique is applied. Note that in no case does South (the closed hand) contain a high card of the suit led.

DUMMY PLAYS LOW.

When there is a division of high cards in dummy and closed hand, it is, as a general rule, best to play low from dummy.

A J (2)	K (2)
N	W E
W	S
10	J 4 3
Q (2)	K J (2)
N	W E
W	S
10 3	10 3
(a) A 10 3
(b) K 10 3
(c) Q 10 3

A 50-50 GUESS.
In the following suit combinations, unless declared has some information from the bidding to guide him, it is a 50-50 guess whether to play high or low from dummy:

K 2	Q 2	Q 10
N	W E	W E
W	S	S
J 3	A 10	A 2

Doctors' Views Concerning Cri Are Definite

By Dr. William Brady.

Frankly, I tell you it is hard for a doctor writing or speaking in his medical personality to remain in popular parlance. He has spent years in acquiring a collection of powerful terms or words which may not mean much when decoded, but, gosh, you have no idea how satisfying it is to the doctor's self-esteem to utter them, and especially if he can persuade laymen to learn to repeat the whoppers after him.

So I insist upon the cri. You laymen may as well understand it once for all. Cri (pronounced kree) is a coined word, made up from the initial letters of the term "Common Respiratory Infections." The list of everyday ailments which, in its earlier stages before a definite diagnosis is made—should be called the cri, includes simple coryza (acute rhinitis, distemper, acute "catarrh," head cold), tonsillitis, pharyngitis, sinusitis, laryngitis, bronchitis, pneumonia, pleurisy, influenza, "grip," measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, mumps, cerebrospinal meningitis ("brain fever"), poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis), chicken pox, tuberculosis and (in the Orient) pneumonic plague.

These diseases are called common respiratory infections for the good reason that, to the best of our present knowledge, they all spread from person to person in the same way, via droplet or spray infection, that is, the germ of virus of the disease is present in the visible or invisibly fine droplets of moisture or secretion sprayed forth from nose and mouth of the person coming down with the disease when he sneezes, coughs, laughs, shouts or speaks. No doubt infection with any such disease sometimes occurs in some other way, but as a rule the mode of infection is as described. And it is not so much from unguarded or unscreened or open-face sneezing and coughing in the vicinity of other persons that the cri gets around, it is, in my opinion, mainly via conversational spray infection. The mouth spray in ordinary quiet conversation carries up to five feet—far enough to get a victim across a counter, through a grill, across a table, in the next seat, across the aisle, beside your desk. We'll talk more about this tomorrow—so come back.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The CRI Season Is Here.
I believe we have more cri in our family before the winter season begins than we do during the winter. (Mrs. C. F. K.)

Answer—Have you tried quinine as a prophylactic? Each adult should take one grain of quinine sulphate (pill, tablet or capsule) three times a day as preventive; if you come down with anything take two grains every four hours for the duration.

MY DAY Nation Should Study, Develop Resources

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio—Yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Ruthven, who is the perfect hostess, took me to see a number of the Ann Arbor buildings on the campus of the University of Michigan. The graduate students' building is really beautiful and the dormitories were liveable and charming. Much of the work has been done either by PWA or WPA, and I feel a great pride in what has been accomplished through co-operation with the federal government.

We went to see Mrs. Alexander Dow and enjoyed the lovely view from her house over the tree tops to the lake below. Then we stopped in for tea and at a girls' dormitory on the way back. President and Mrs. Ruthven were so kind that I left with great reluctance after my lecture and wished I could have had a longer stay in Ann Arbor really to appreciate all the work carried on there.

The state press association was meeting in Ann Arbor and I was happy to see some old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Traenor, for a few minutes after my lecture.

We arrived in Youngstown this morning to find so many things of interest which could be done during the day, that it has been difficult to plan what we would do. Of course, the press conference came first and then I went to see my first steel mill, the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company. It is a very modern plant and looks extremely efficient. They pointed out to me that the modern machinery made the work for the men lighter than it had been in the old days. They said that though fewer men were needed for certain operations, this did not mean that fewer men were actually used in the mill, because in the finishing processes more labor was required and steel is used in many new ways today.

Youngstown has always been a one-industry city and the whole valley is dependent on the steel business for its livelihood. There is a big problem before them at present because their cost of production is higher than it is in places where they have water transportation as well as rail transportation. By good management they have been able to compete so far, but they feel that unless a certain canal is built which will give them access to the river and the great lakes, this competition may become impossible to meet in the future. It is a serious situation and one which can be duplicated elsewhere where there are other interests.

I am beginning to think that we need not only a national resources board, to look into what the nation's resources are and report on them, but a group made up of industrialists and labor leaders to do research work in all these different problems which affect different areas throughout the country. They should be looked at from the point of view of the eventual development of the country as a whole and planned on a wide basis. I can think of many objections to this plan, among others, the difficulty of making people think on a national instead of a local basis where their personal interests are involved. I have an idea, however, that this is something which we ought to be thinking about for the future.

French Demobilize Actors To Keep Studios Going

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 29.—After much mind-changing, Paramount has finally settled on "I Want a Divorce" as the picture to star Claudette Colbert and Don Ameche. Before Don, who is an ardent Catholic, would agree to play in the movie—based on the radio series—Paramount had to promise that the film, in spite of its title, would be a preachment against divorce.

SHEILAH GRAHAM. A preachment against divorce. Apart from the tenets of his religion, Don is one of the happier married men in Hollywood—and is likely to stay married to his bride for as long as they both shall live.

Gary Cooper is ready to sign with Producer Arthur Hornblow for the lead in "Triumph Over Pain," the story of William T. Green Morton, the American dentist and surgeon, who was the first person to give a public demonstration of ether as an anesthetic for pain. Dr. Morton died in 1868, penniless in spite of his great boon for mankind. The ethics of his profession had prevented the sale of his discovery.

"I Had a Comrade" from the pen of Viscount Castlerosse, will now be made in Metro's studio here—and not in England, as originally planned. Spencer Tracy and Margaret Sullivan have been pencilled in for top roles. . . . Five hundred women have requested the motion picture theater exhibitors of Lynn, Mass., to refrain from showing pictures which star actors and actresses who have been divorced. This would cut out some of our best thespians—Bette Davis for one, Margaret Sullivan, for another, Clark Gable, and many more.

Aldous Huxley is working on the screen play of "Pride and Prejudice" for Metro. . . . Virginia Weidler gets a lift in salary and the lead in "Kathleen," an original by Kay Van Riper. . . . Rita Hayworth, who looked so glamorous in "Only Angels Have Wings," gets the top feminine role opposite Tony Martin in "Passport to Happiness" . . . Jean Parker joins Binnie Barnes, Harry Carey, Maria Ouspenskaya and C. Aubrey Smith in "And the Goodbyes" to be made in New York. . . . "Daytime Wife," starring Tyrone Power and Linda Darnell, which was changed to "First Kiss," has now been changed back to "Daytime Wife."

Old-timer Betty Compson gets her best break in years with the second feminine lead in "Not Too Narrow, Not Too Deep," starring Joan Crawford and Clark Gable.

In a sudden last-minute switch, Miriam Hopkins replaces Brenda Marshall, who replaced Olivia de Havilland in "Virginia City," starring Errol Flynn. . . . Noah Beery Jr. goes into "Light of the Western Stars," the Zane Grey epic. . . . Did you know that "They Shall Meet Again," in which Merle Oberon replaces Bette Davis with George Brent, is a remake of "One Way Passage," which starred William Powell with Kay Francis? . . . The French film companies are making pictures again—for which, three cheers—some of them were very good. And the French government has demobilized top-ranking French actors in order to keep the studios going—among them, Charles Boyer, Pierre Fresnay and Jean Gabin. . . . Zorina will be the feminine interest in Sam Goldwyn's "The Outlaw."

A slight hitch has occurred in the plan to complete—or, rather, remake—"Take This Woman," Hedy Lamarr says she won't return to work unless Metro pays her $5,000 a week. It may be cheaper to let the epic, on which $800,000 has already been spent, remain on the shelf. . . . "I Was an Adventurer" sounds like the right cup of tea for Madeleine Carroll, to be made by Twentieth Century-Fox. . . . There is glorification in store for Major R. B. Neyland, football coach for the University of Tennessee. Clarence Brown, who went to college there, is doing the negotiating, which, if successful, will result in a film directed by him. . . . Vivien Leigh's next in Hollywood after "Gone With the Wind" is "Waterloo Bridge," to be made at the Metro studio.

Husband Teases Wife About Secretary

By Caroline Chatfield.

Every now and then I get a letter from an irate wife who wants me to administer a good spanking to business girls on general principles; but of course the specific matter on the writer's mind is jealousy of the husband's secretary and suspicion of her. Now I say it is the men, not the business girls, who need spanking, for the reasons that the majority of business girls are at their desks for business and the men for whom they work are usually older, more experienced and in positions of authority and power. When fire breaks out in the office it is often because otherwise the boss who struck the match. And, too, a lot of wives imagine the men smell smoke when there is no fire.

"Miss Chatfield, if anything goes wrong in our home my husband always lay the blame at my door and tells me that if I were on my job as his secretary is on hers this or that wouldn't have happened. I'm sick of it in more ways than one. These business girls make nothing but trouble for us wives. They yes, yes, our husbands and slumber and smile at them and make the men feel like demigods, which we all know is the best way to make a man think he has found the perfect love."

Surely it's contemptible for a man to whale his wife over the head with the efficiency of a secretary. But in wildest imagination we can't blame the poor working girl for a man's bullying his wife. His type would bully her with something else if no woman had ever entered business. Furthermore, so long as she lets him see he's getting under her skin, the more he bullies her.

The fact that the office employee makes competition for the wife is the fault of the business girl, except in rare instances where she's up to monkey business. She's got to come through with efficiency in office housekeeping. She's got to be prompt, pleasant, present a good appearance, if she's to keep her job. She knows full well that when she doesn't turn out the work in satisfactory fashion she will be let out in favor of a more competent and conscientious applicant. The sword hangs over her head.

As often as otherwise she's contributing to the support of husband who can't make a living, or if she's not married she's maintaining a home for a widowed mother, paying tuition for younger brothers and sisters or nieces and nephews. Not long ago I sat in a room with a dozen business girls and with one exception they were all lending a hand to members of their families; in several instances they were sole support of at least one person.

So when it comes to starting a movement to run women out of business or even to administer a spanking to secretaries on general principles, I beg to be let out. I think they are much more stinned against than sinning.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Adam Furniture Has Delicate Frame Work

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

Incredibly different from all that Chippendale stood for in furniture designing, yet a contemporary, was Robert Adam, one of four Scotch brothers who created architectural fashions in London in the amazing few years of the 18th century when most of the furniture styles we love best were originated.

A Cold Harmony.
The Adam influence was classic, formal, restrainedly elegant. Essentially an architect, Adam furniture designs were created as a part of his complete conception for harmonizing furnishings and architecture of his interiors. And because these interiors themselves were dainty in a cold and classic way, the furniture itself often seems too precious for wide use today. And yet it is very important in the story of the development of decoration, and its influence is still seen in chairs and tables and bedroom furniture, in fabrics and in rugs and lamps in use in present-day homes. The chief contribution that Adam made, one that we might put to far better use today than we do, is that the architecture and the furniture in a room should both be complementary parts of one unified design.

Against Pale Walls.
Adam furniture has delicate frame work, often combining curves with sound structural lines and the commodore frequently have a half moon shape. Although he used a great deal of mahogany, he also liked satinwood, ebony, holly, often intricately inlaid or painted. Classic medallions, drapery swags, urns, friezes . . . these were typical details. If you discern a similarity between Wedgwood and Adam motifs it is because an important sculptor of the period, Joseph Flaxman, worked on both. Adam furniture was designed to be used in rooms with pale walls (gray, soft green, yellow, light blue) accented with dado, moldings, panels, plaques, elaborately ornamental ceilings in apollous or bas relief.

Riding Keeps Cowboys Under 200-Pound Class

By Ida Jean Kain.

When west comes east for the rodeo, what do you think impresses the cowboys most? No, not the tall buildings but rather the soft people, millions of 'em, all looking as if they never got any exercise!

Now, don't conclude this was a voluntary criticism. It was an admission and reluctantly made. But Paul Carney, champion rider at the Madison Square Garden rodeo and spokesman for the boys, finally admitted that, as a rule, city dwellers look unhealthily soft and that they—the men particularly—ought to do something about it.

Mr. Carney might be taken for Max Baer in the pink of condition. His ideas of fun and exercise is a free-thinking cow pony given to surprise attacks of acute curvature of the spine and the hallucination that, even counting the rider, he is lighter than air. It is Mr. Carney's conviction that riding is the world's best exercise.

Riding one of those bucking ponies wangles practically every muscle a man owns he says. It keeps the beltline in its place and helps to control weight! Why, you never see a good rider up in the 200-pound class. The good ones are all between 160 and 180 pounds—and they range from five eleven to a mite over six feet in height.

But what if a man can't ride? Any man, says Mr. Carney, can ride. If he doesn't know how, he can learn! The rodeo champion comes from a country (Galeton, Pa.) where horses are more common than taxis and somewhat chaper.

But if a man cannot afford to ride, swimming is the next best exercise. In fact, it's a good exercise anyway! Mr. Carney rides every day, and swims several times a week!

Also, it turns out that the favorite pastime of the cattleman is "scuffling," and that scuffling is nothing more nor less than wrestling for fun. After a cowboy has been riding for 10 or 11 hours, there's nothing he enjoys better than scuffling around with one of the other boys.

About calories, Mr. Carney doesn't know. They may be all right. He likes plenty of food, including vegetables, but enjoys meat three times a day. And, at that, he marvels at the seven-course dinners tucked away by the businessmen who haven't had any exercise all day.

The daily routine of this active westerner is such a contrast to that of the average businessman that it may wake you up to what you are missing. Perhaps it will help you to revive an interest in your own program for keeping fit.

Panel Cut With Midriff Section

By Barbara Bell.

If you're planning to have just one good dress this season, that you can wear and wear, for street and afternoon both, this design (1849-B) fills the bill exactly. Made up in fine superior quality fabrics of your own choosing, it will have a simple, well-bred elegance that you will thoroughly enjoy. The bodice is gathered, beneath smooth shoulder sections, to assure a smart, high-bosomed line. The skirt is extremely slenderizing, thanks to the widening panel cut in one with the midriff section.

The pattern gives you the choice of three-quarter, modified bishop sleeves or full-length ones. Flat crepe, thin wool, velvet or wool broadcloth are smart materials for it.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1849-B is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4 3/4 yards of 39-inch fabric with three-quarter length sleeves. With long sleeves, 4 1/2 yards, two-thirds yard ribbon for bow.

History Will Repeat Itself In Studio Club's New Quarters

By Sally Forth.

CULTURAL affairs which highlighted the social life of Atlanta in the late 19th and early 20th century will be resumed next Sunday when open house will be held at the new quarters of the Studio Club on Piedmont avenue. History will repeat itself when the club members begin their variety of activities at the home, and thereby hangs a tale.

The new home of the club, at 855 Piedmont avenue, bears an interesting history, for the handsome residence was the home for many years of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cabanis Peoples, prominent and beloved Atlantans. During those years it was the rendezvous for socialites and for the gathering of cultural and educational groups.

Leaders in the social life of Atlanta, Mr. and Mrs. Peoples gave gay and interesting parties—especially at Christmas when more than 40 members of the family would gather. For the more serious side of life, Mr. and Mrs. Peoples assembled cultural groups at their home. Mrs. Peoples frequently entertained her two history classes, the Every Saturday Class and the 19th Century Class. Mr. Peoples, a great student of Shakespeare, was host to the Shakespeare Club once a week for more than 30 years, gathering the group for informal studies at his home. He also played host monthly to a literary symposium.

A handsome imported bronze mantel in the library which was an attractive feature of the Peoples home, remains for the Studio Club members, and centers the library. During the Peoples' occupancy of the home, the room was filled with world classics and served as a constant source of reference for students.

Mrs. Peoples, the former Lillie Walker, was a great belle and beauty in her day. Her mother, Dora Fernandez Walker, was a distinguished Spanish dancer and her European culture and talents combined to give an air of special import to her daughter's home. Her paintings hung in the home and her musical talent was often brought to the fore in informal affairs.

Mrs. Andrew Fairlie, the former Lillie Peoples, grew up in the home on Piedmont avenue and the establishment of the Studio Club's headquarters there assumes more than sentimental interest for her. For, you see, her husband served for two years as the popular president of the club.

The Studio Club members function in four groups as follows: the Beaux Arts, Music, Dramatic and Writers. Julian H. Harris is the popular president and with the other officers, Mrs. William Elsas, vice president; Mrs. Cliff Pullen, recording secretary; and Miss Bertha Nix, corresponding secretary; Edwin Haas Jr., treasurer, and Mrs. Lafayette Butler, entertainment chairman, will act as host Sunday at the open house which will honor the past presidents. In the latter group are Andrew Fairlie, Harold Bush-Brown, Cyril Smith, George Ramey, Stewart Gelders, Edgar Neely and Ledlie Conger.

ATLANTA'S popular Mr. Green Dodd Warren, director of Region V of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, will be honored guest tomorrow evening at the brilliant ball to be held in Macon in celebration of the birthday anniversary of the Macon Junior League. The affair will take place at the Idle Hour Club, and will be preceded by a meeting of the Macon league at which Mrs. Warren will be guest speaker.

The Atlanta leaves for Macon today to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Birdsey.

Among gala parties planned for her will be the dinner at which Mrs. Charles N. Wasden, president of the Macon league, and Dr. Wasden will entertain this evening. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lee will entertain tomorrow evening in her honor. Others to fete the visiting director are Mrs. Robert A. McCord Jr. and Mrs. Herbert Birdsey.

Tomorrow's ball will mark the fifteenth anniversary of the United States.

Mrs. Helgesen Weds Guilford Dudley Jr.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 29.—The marriage of Mrs. Kitty Barrett Helgesen, of Birmingham, daughter of Mrs. Robert R. Meyer, and the late Edward W. Barrett, to Guilford Dudley Jr., Nashville, Tenn., took place here Saturday in the Greenbrier hotel at 5:30 o'clock. Members of both families and a few close friends attended. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Lloyd Courtney, of Lewisburg, W. Va.

The bride was given away by her brother, Edward W. Barrett, at an improvised altar lighted by white tapers, decorated with white chrysanthemums and southern smilax. Mrs. C. Barney Ireland, of Birmingham, was matron of honor. The groom was attended by John Bransford, of Nashville.

The bride was attired in a balenciaga gown of ashes of roses, satin jersey, fashioned long sleeves, cowl neck and bustle draped skirt. Flowers were sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley in French bouquet with matching flowers in hair. Mrs. Ireland wore pale blue crepe with a similar bouquet.

Mrs. Dudley's first marriage to Raymond M. Helgesen, of Washington, ended in divorce last summer. She is well known in Atlanta, Washington and New York and is a Junior League member of Birmingham and Washington chapters. Her late father was former publisher of a Birmingham paper and member of the Gridiron Club. She is a cousin of the late Major Archibald W. Butt, military aide to Presidents Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft.

Mr. Dudley is a prominent young businessman of Nashville and vice president of Life & Casualty Insurance Company of Tennessee, and a member of Hillsboro Hounds and Hunt Club, Nashville.

MISS CAROLINE CANDLER.

The hand of charming Caroline Candler, lovely debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Candler, of Madison, Ga., and granddaughter of Mrs. Peter W. Godfrey, one of the south's most outstanding women, provides a good example of the sloping head line, denoting the emotional, artistic temperament.

This type hand denotes reason, impulse and intuition. The type fingers indicate one quick in thought, apt to form opinions with trigger-like swiftness. Set evenly on a line, they denote a splendid degree of material and mental success.

The type heart line shows that she is responsive, warm hearted, generous and impulsive. An enviable combination indeed. The head line indicates mental courage and a talent for human contact.

Caroline's hand shows one peculiarly sensitive to color and color combination. She could succeed well along any line that called for this particular gift.

The very fact that the line of fate or destiny bends slightly under the second finger, becomes a decided promise of a successful and happy life.

Caroline H. Candler.

The marriage line, low and well cut, shows an early and happy marriage. Delving deeper into the future, Caroline's choice will likely fall on a handsome young business man, whose interests will be wide and varied.

On Wednesday, Mrs. Jennings will analyze the hand of another Atlanta debutante exclusively for The Atlanta Constitution.

Mrs. W. Earl Quillian, at her home, 986 Ponce de Leon avenue, N. E., with Mrs. M. L. Holmes and Miss Annie Mae Broach as co-hostesses. Guests were seated at tables, where the Halloween motif was featured in the place cards and the luncheon.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. E. N. Good. Mrs. M. R. Woodall read the club collect, and Miss Louise Ballard introduced William R. Barbour, associate forester of United States Forest Department of Agriculture Forest Service, who spoke on work of the United States Forest Service and showed colored moving picture film on the Nantahala national forest.

A letter was read from the new scholarship pupil at Tallulah Falls school, Mary Ann Martin, who holds the Annie Mae Broach scholarship, which has been completed. Since the club is beginning another perpetual scholarship, to be known as the "Rhododendron Perpetual Scholarship," it was decided to sponsor a little boy.

A collection was taken for the penny art fund, and the club will help with the Community Fund drive.

The Atlanta Music Club entertains at an informal reception at the Atlanta Woman's Club for Charles Kullman after his concert.

Mrs. W. D. McMaster gives a dessert bridge at the Hotel Candler for Miss Maude Woodward, bride-elect, of Decatur.

Mr. and Mrs. Wellborn Ellis give an al fresco Halloween party at their home on Berkshire road.

For Miss Blackshear.

Miss Duchess Oliver will be hostess at a luncheon on Saturday, in honor of Miss Dorothea Blackshear, bride-elect of November.

Guests will include the honoree, Misses Elizabeth Blackshear, Anne Scott Harman, Marjorie Carmichael, Henrietta Gunn, Jule McClatchey, Bright Bickerstaff and Jacqueline Oliver.

South Carolina Club Chooses Officers

At the October meeting of the South Carolina Club, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. C. H. Whetstone; first vice president, Mrs. W. O. Gaffney; second vice president, Mrs. Myers Lovelace; recording secretary, Mrs. C. C. Barton; corresponding secretary, Mrs. George D. Lesesne; treasurer, Mrs. C. M. McLaughlin; chaplain, Mrs. Arthur T. Allen. Mrs. J. Harry Lange and Mrs. Keith Quarterman, members of the Young Matrons' Circle, of Tallulah Falls school, invited the club to attend the presentation of Samuel Gaillard Stoney, of Charleston, S. C., in a lecture at the Piedmont Driving Club on November 13.

Mrs. Bonita Crowe rendered a musical program. Mrs. P. G. Hanahan gave a historical sketch of the founding of the city of Beaufort, S. C., and displayed antiques gathered from this historic city. Miss Dorothy Sheppard was received as a new member.

Luncheon was planned by the hostess, Mrs. R. G. Lebby.

Oakhurst W. M. S. To Honor Members.

Oakhurst Baptist W. M. S. will entertain at the church Monday at 7:30 o'clock in honor of members received this year. Mrs. Thomas Wagner, chairman of the entertainment, has planned the program and will preside.

Since the W. M. U. Training school, Louisville, is to be moved to the Beeches and all W. M. U. organizations are to have a part in erecting new buildings, a play on the "Why, Who, Where and When" of this project. Those taking parts will be Mesdames John Smith, L. J. Pirkle, R. B. Brantley, Walter Savage, A. H. Barnes, Charles Peace, H. C. Mills, Max Flynn, A. H. Daniels, A. G. Maynard, S. N. Newby, Walter Peters, W. R. Colburn, Dave Jenkins, P. G. Barnes, and Misses Mary Keene and Marjorie Owens. Mrs. J. H. Mowell, young people's director, will present the auxiliary leaders: Mrs. Cliff Hall, Mrs. Bill McKinney, Mrs. Winston Creech, Lamar Mowell and H. G. Edwards.

Mrs. A. B. Couch will bring greetings. Mrs. John Esby will furnish music.

The committees assisting are: Invitation, Mrs. J. F. Redding and Mrs. John Wolf; decoration, Mesdames G. P. Barnes, Georgia Johnson, N. N. Campbell, J. W. McCormick and Nowell Sikes; refreshments, Mrs. O. A. Wilbanks and Mrs. E. G. Jackson.

Pioneer Women To Present Program.

Mrs. W. M. Rapp, president of the Atlanta Pioneer Women's Association, announces an especially attractive program Wednesday, 3 o'clock, at Rich's.

Miss Rose Hubner will read a tribute to Mrs. Ernest B. Williams, a member, who because of long service and great achievement, has come to typify the "Ideal Pioneer." Mrs. W. F. Trenary will read a history of the "Old Barclay Mission," a Christian institution which flourished in Atlanta over 40 years ago, and out of which grew some of the most important philanthropic and charitable institutions of today.

Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright and Mrs. F. M. Robinson, who were teachers in this mission Sunday school and leaders in the benevolences which grew out of it, are invited as special guests.

Mrs. Rapp invites all former teachers, officers and co-workers with the late John F. Barclay to attend. Mrs. Ernest Bell, chairman of musical programs, will sing songs which were popular at that time.

Mrs. John F. MacDougald and Mrs. T. J. Ripley, of the hospital auxiliary committee, will welcome guests.

Spooks Hall of Fame To Be Staged At Atlanta Woman's Club Tuesday

A spooks hall of fame will be staged at 8 o'clock on Halloween evening at Atlanta Woman's Club, of which Mrs. Calvin Shelverton is president. Miss Minna McLeod Beck, art department chairman, will sponsor the event assisted by her co-chairmen, Mesdames Robert Young, Clyde Mitchell, Mary Clements, Peyre Gaillard, Mary Griffith Dobbs, Lafayette Butler, Howard Pattillo and Miss Evelyn Burns, president of the Junior Woman's Club, and members of the club. A nominal admission fee will be charged.

Statues in the hall of fame will be those of outstanding ghosts of characters in fiction and history, silhouetted against the black-draped walls. Mrs. Mary Clements will furnish weird music when guides conduct lecture tours to explain the various statues, historical background, the way they met their death, and how they are enjoying their spookism. At the conclusion of the tour vote will be taken for the most unusual and interesting statue. The statue receiving the popular vote will receive a prize.

Among statues to be represented will be the dramatic departments of the Georgia Evening College, Agnes Scott, Washington Seminary, Oglethorpe University and Commercial High school, Girls' High school, Junior Atlanta Woman's Club and the Children's theater. Mrs. Dolly Lee Butler will read fortunes of those desiring to have their fortunes predicted.

Miss Blackett Makes Formal Bow To Socialites at Piedmont Club

A lovely Chicago debutante, Miss Priscilla Blackett, who joined the 1939-40 Debutante Club in Atlanta, was formally presented to Atlanta socialites yesterday at a brilliant tea-dance at the Piedmont Driving Club by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Blackett, whom she is visiting. The occasion assembled several hundred members of society, who were received by the hosts and honor guests in the club's spacious ballroom. Assisting in receiving were the debutante's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hill Blackett, of Chicago.

The receiving party stood before a background of palms and foliage plants, augmented by graceful floor baskets filled with yellow chrysanthemums. The buffet table was centered with a large mound of roses, snapdragons and button chrysanthemums in shades of yellow.

The color motif of yellow and green prevailed in the elaborate decorations featuring plaques of ferns, English magnolias and yellow chrysanthemums, which beautified the handsome white columns.

Punch was served from bowls encircled with mounds of small yellow chrysanthemums. Foliage plants and palms were grouped in artistic arrangement in the corners of the room, and in the reception rooms, baskets of yellow chrysanthemums were arranged on the consoles and mantels. An orchestra played popular musical selections during the tea-dance.

Mrs. W. L. Blackett was attired in a handsome gown fashioned of dahlia red crepe with which she wore a cluster of Denderbium orchids.

Miss Blackett wore a stunning gown of sage green designed with short puffed sleeves and graceful skirt featuring a bustle effect. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of Better Times roses and purple ageratum held in a lace container and tied with Better Times color ribbon.

Mrs. Hill Blackett chose for the auspicious occasion a brown and gold lame gown designed with a light bodice and square neckline. A shoulder bouquet of purple orchids completed her costume.

o'clock in Rich's conference room. Mrs. A. B. Valentine, president, will preside.

For Miss Hightower.

Miss Connie Causey entertained at a luncheon Saturday in compliment to Miss Marion Hightower, whose marriage to James Childs will take place November 23.

Mrs. John Weems assisted her daughter in entertaining. A feature of the entertainment was a lingerie shower for the bride-elect.

Invited were Misses Elsie Yarbrough, Mary Gwiner, Jeanette Stevens, Marie Cotton, Mildred Hammock, Virginia Ingraham, Martha Dunn, Elvira Davis, Dorothy Nash, Mary Brock, Doris Riddle, Mesdames J. C. Bigdow, L. F. Brewer, John Paschal, Herman Brantley, C. U. Hightower and W. D. Ricks.

Miss Reid Honored.

Miss Mary Agnes Sullivan entertained recently at her home on Peachtree avenue for her visitor, Miss Peggy Dee Heid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reid, of Augusta. Games and fortune telling were enjoyed. Fifty members of the young social contingent were present.

Four Teams Tied for S.E.C. Lead With Two Victories Each

All in the Game

—by Jack Tracy

The spectacular N. Y. U.-Georgia game in Yankee Stadium proved, among other things, that—

(1) Georgia can play football when the boys have their minds on football.

(2) N. Y. U. did the Bulldogs a great favor by starting a fight (because it probably made the Georgia team).

(3) Coach Mal Stevens got what he was asking for with his phony charges of Georgia roughing.

(4) There may be something to what Larry Kelley charged about the Ivy league, after all (Stevens once coached at Yale, of course.)

(5) Kelley charged that players often were used when injured and should have been kept out of uniform. (Stevens used Al Campanis until an aggravation of his original injury forced him out after a short time.)

(6) Stevens admitted after the game that "I probably shouldn't have used him." The N. Y. U. trainer also admitted he had no business playing at all.

It is now possible to paraphrase that old line. N. Y. U. did all right while allowing the sleeping Bulldog to lie. But when the Bulldog was aroused, it was another story.

Georgia had costly lapses on defense in the first half. N. Y. U. completed a touchdown pass right down the middle. Georgia twice was badly fooled on lateral plays, which are not exactly foreign to them. One led to a touchdown.

But the fight made Georgia. The boys settled down to playing football then and a fine N. Y. U. team looked like how the Grant Park Aces might look playing the New York Giants. That is, the football giants.

WHAT AN OFFENSE THEY SHOWED!

Georgia gained 211 yards rushing in the second half-alone. The Violets were limited to 36 yards after the intermission.

Now, Jim Fordham is a nice fellow, personally. He is a quiet, modest boy who tends to his own business. But he can really play football when he's in the mood. Fordham looked like one of the finest fullbacks since Doug Wycoff in the second half, particularly. Big Jim, running with the speed of a halfback and the driving power of a supercharged tank, made light of the N. Y. U. line, which helped beat Colgate and Carnegie Tech and outplayed North Carolina.

Fordham virtually was unstoppable on spinners. He was a potent blocker and strong on defense. He was a great fullback.

The same goes for Captain Vassa Cate as a halfback. Cate has all the possibilities, and he showed Saturday that, once in an open field, he is a terrific threat. His 66-yard touchdown run was both a spectacular and cleverly executed piece of running.

He was aided by good blocking, but he also stiff-armed the one man who stood in the path as he shot into the open field. Then it was goodby, Vassa. He sprinted down the sidelines and pursuers faded in the distance.

Georgia suffered mightily by the loss of Cliff Kimsey, the hard-running sophomore. Had Kimsey been available to pile into the strong side, with Fordham hanging to the weak, there is a good chance toward the end that Georgia would have knocked the N. Y. U. team into the stands. They almost did as it was.

FIGHT UNDOUBTEDLY PREMEDITATED.

There was not a doubt in the New York press yesterday as to who started the fight. You see, Joe Frank is the heavy-weight boxing champion of N. Y. U., and Jim Tighe, who came in swinging when Frank took the first punch at slender Knox Eldredge, was his roommate at Peter Stuyvesant High.

That adds up pretty sensibly. In fact, Mal Stevens admitted that Tighe probably wanted to assist his old roommate.

Eldredge simply went out after a pass and, in trying to ret. he and Frank went together. Knox might have rushed Frank. But the fact remains Frank punched at him. Then fists flew freely and N. Y. U. subs were out on the field as if by a signal. They beat the Georgia

JIMMY WILBURN WINS LAKEWOOD RACING FEATURE

Harley Taylor, of Atlanta, Cops 10-Mile Event Before 15,000.

Jimmy Wilburn, of Los Angeles, won the main event at the Lakewood speedway Sunday when he piloted his car over 20 rip-roaring miles in 14:23.2 to establish records for the track and for the Consolidated States Racing Association, sponsor of the card.

In second place was Duke Dinsmore, of Dayton, Ohio, with third-place honors going to Johnny de Camp. Trailing the leaders, in order, were Everett Saylor, of Dayton; Bob Simpson, of Detroit; and Mike Salay, of South Bend, Ind.

About 15,000 spectators were on hand.

In a 10-mile race, Harley Taylor, of Atlanta, won in 8:37.9, with Speed Morelock, of Albemarle, S. C., second; Tip Lanier, of Dayton, Ga., third; Bill Word, of Anniston, Ala., fourth; and Lloyd Simpson, of Atlanta, fifth.

A feature heat of six miles went to Dinsmore with a time of 4:18.2. Bob Sall, of Paterson, N. J., took a second six-mile in 4:23.6, while Salay knocked off a qualifying six-lap race in 5:29.3.

ANN EAGAN STAR OF HORSE SHOW

Ann Eagan captured three first places in the DeKalb county horse show Saturday before a crowd of 2,500.

Other winners include Lupton Veazy Rainwater, with two first and a second; Maddox Whitley, with two firsts; Kay King, with two firsts; Nat Klausman, with a first, third and fourth; Virginia Herzog, with a first and second; Mrs. Maddox Whitley, with a first and two seconds.

In the DeKalb school and college event Miss Eagan, of Agnes Scott, won top honors with Miss Herzog, of Druid Hills High, second.

EIGHT MATMEN BATTLE TONIGHT

Eight wrestlers will swap locks and punches on the Atlanta theater mat tonight when a novel wrestling royal will be offered fans.

It will be a "winner take all" proposition, according to promoters Nat Jones and Cleve Roby, who have provided two referees to forestall a general riot.

Jack Bennett, Philadelphia; Joe Washburn, Chicago; Tony Papalino, New York; Eugene Boy Hackney, Dallas; Red Dugan, Chattanooga; Young London, Atlanta; Bad Boy Brown, French Canadian; and Gentleman John Mauldin, wrestling's meanest man, will be the principals of the special show beginning promptly at 8:30 p. m.

The plan of combat is as follows: When a man is down he is out and must leave the ring, thereby losing his chance of winning the top prize of $100 which goes to the last man to remain standing.

Two other good matches are billed for one hour time limit, best two out of three falls.

Golf News 'Engel, Block Axis' Formed at Grid Tilt

Lookout Boss Pledges Pennant for Selma Friend at Jacket-Tiger Battle.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Leave it to Joseph W. Engel, the "clown prince" of baseball, to keep the diamond pastime in the news when football is in sway.

Joe motored down from Chattanooga for the Auburn-Georgia Tech football game. It couldn't have been anything but coincidence that his seats were on the same bench with Maurice I. Bloch and his party.

Just to have the facts straight, Engel is president of the fan-owned Chattanooga club of the Southern Association. Bloch is chairman of the board of directors of the Selma club of the Southeastern league.

WAS A DEAL.

Well, as one might have suspected, baseball was talked before, during and after the football game. And, as suspected, there was a deal.

President Engel purchased a half-interest in the Selma club and an official announcement from the Selma club said the "Engel-Bloch axis" was all set to knock off a couple of pennants in 1940.

"I've got more players now than I know what to do with," said Engel without flinching, "so I'll send along about seven pitchers and a few others to win a pennant for Comrade Bloch."

LONG ENOUGH.

"That Selma club has been down and out too long. I'm going to give them a pennant next year. They won't be able to break up this Engel-Bloch axis."

And with an ala Hitler salute the contract was signed, sealed and witnessed, whereby became established the "Engel-Bloch axis" destined to produce pennants for Chattanooga and Selma.

"My stockholders will think this a great deal," remarked Engel after the ceremonies. "We'll make Selma the 'key' city in our farm system and from here on the St. Louis Cardinals' farm network can take a back seat."

Farr Wants Leave To Engage Bomber

LONDON, Oct. 29.—(P)—Aircrafterman Tommy Farr, British heavyweight champion, said today that Mike Jacobs, New York fight promoter, had offered him 20 percent of the gate to meet World Champion Joe Louis in New York next March.

Farr, who went 10 rounds with Louis two years ago, said, "I hope to get leave from the R. A. F. and I would not want much time because I might fly each way. If I can't get leave, then of course the whole thing is off."

LEAGUE INTACT.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 29.—(P)—The Class "B" Southeastern League will operate again as an eight-club circuit in 1940—this much was determined today at the semi-annual directors' meeting.

FOSTER CANDLE CHAMP.

Cliff Foster, playing near par golf, Sunday afternoon won the Candler Park club championship. He defeated H. C. Brooks, 4-and-3. The final play was postponed from last week's play.

Both players shot good golf during the course of the match, shooting around 35 for the first nine holes.

There was no blind bogey tournament during the day.

BOBBY JONES. Seventy-five was the winning number in the Bobby Jones blind bogey tournament Sunday afternoon. No one hit it.

J. B. Everett was the nearest to it, having a score of 74.

Two players had a score of 76. They were Gorned Freeman and H. J. Brown.

WEST END BOGEY. No one hit the winning number at West End Sunday afternoon in the blind bogey play. The number, 67, was drawn out of a hat. Therefore this same number will be carried over until next week.

Incidentally, this will allow more golf balls to be given away to the ultimate winner.

Four players had a score of 69 for the day. They were R. A. Moore, A. B. Heinzen, C. E. Bettill and S. W. Buckner.

and passing here this afternoon to defeat Washington, 24 to 14, in a national football league game before a damp crowd of 25,000.

Navy Saved From Rout By Injury

McFadden Didn't Play; Goat Was Star of Clemson Game.

By WHITEY MARTIN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(P)—He played the role of the invisible man yesterday, but we got a pretty fair proxy view of Banks McFadden, the Clemson traveling man, as his football team defeated Navy at Thompson field, the Navy stadium, which is so close to Chesapeake Bay one of the end zones practically is dunking.

McFadden was out with a leg infection, but we were flanked in the press box by a couple of South Carolinians who painted a word picture of their favorite, and spared not the colors.

To say that Clemson defeated just the Navy team is inaccurate. It defeated 11 men and a goat, with the goat providing one of the best offensive maneuvers of the afternoon.

The Navy goat, groomed from beard to tail, with a gaudy blanket fitted snugly to its plump body, strutted up and down the sideline in care of a midshipman, but beneath its apparent unconcern it must have known the Midlands were taking a fair country licking.

SELECTS TARGET.

Late in the game a scrimmage play sent players tumbling over the sideline. The goat had to step lively to avoid the confusion. It jumped back, glared balefully at the —jawed bodies, then carefully selected a target.

It was a cowardly attack, directly from the north, and Clemson players insist it was no accident the target was one of their number, a big, unidentified lineman who was busy picking himself up. The midshipman gave a sharp tug on a restraining rope as the goat's head went down and it hunched itself into a knot, but even so there was violent contact as the goat uncoiled and let fly. The lineman bounced a couple of times, gave his assailant a grievous look, and made himself scarce in a hurry.

But we were talking about McFadden. Our informants describe him as a long, lath of a youngster, 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighing only 175.

But, they tell you, he can stand five yards back of that tough Clemson line and run, pass or kick with amazing efficiency. By comparison our informants tried to show us just how good he is.

"Now if that had been McFadden he would have been away," said one as a Clemson back, on a flank maneuver from a fake punt, was spilled.

KICK INTO BAY. "If McFadden was quick-kicking with that wind he'd put the ball into the bay," the other advised.

"McFadden would mean two or three more touchdowns, he's absolutely the best I've seen," said the first as the Clemson score mounted to 15 points.

So maybe the youngster is just as good as the reports seem to indicate. In fact, the Carolinians seem to be full of great backs.

The two best backs this corner has seen this year are George McAffee, Duke's two-legged whirlwind, and Rotten Shetley, the Furman captain who walked down the field with half the Army team draped on him like confetti.

And our proxy view of McFadden would seem to run the list to three, although it's vaguely possible that our informants are slightly prejudiced. Even so, any passer who misses his man just once in three games must be a fair country pitcher, and that's McFadden's record. He seems to do about everything but field his own punts.

TECH, DUKE PLAY HERE SATURDAY ON GRANT FIELD

Bulldogs Battle Mercer Friday in Athens; Vols and L. S. U. Clash.

By KENNETH GREGORY

Associated Press Sports Writer

The football campaign headed into the November stretch today for four Southeastern Conference teams deadlocked for the lead and indications pointing to a championship for any one of the pace-setting quartet.

Neck-and-neck with two victories each are Tennessee, Kentucky, Tulane and Georgia Tech.

Tennessee's undefeated, untied and unscathed Volunteers and Georgia Tech Engineers each has four conference games remaining.

The Kentucky Wildcats, also undefeated and untied, and Tulane's Green Wave have three games apiece remaining and on the basis of results to date the opposition for these two teams seems a bit stiffer than for the other two adversaries.

CONFERENCE SLATE.

Here's the conference slate from here on for the four leaders:

Tennessee—Louisiana State, Vanderbilt, Kentucky and Auburn.

Georgia Tech—Kentucky, Alabama, Florida and Georgia.

Kentucky—Alabama, Georgia Tech and Tennessee.

Tulane—Alabama, Sewanee and Louisiana State.

Victories against Southeastern foes yesterday by Georgia Tech and Tulane threw the race into the four-way deadlock. Georgia Tech, thanks to its 10th straight point after touchdown, this one by Roy Gore, defeated Auburn's Plainsmen 7 to 6. Tulane took a comparatively easy 18-to-6 verdict over Mississippi, the first defeat of the season for the Rebels.

Kentucky and Tennessee, polishing up on the conference opposition, breezed to victories to maintain spots in the nation's list of teams with perfect records. The Kentucky Wildcats collected a 21-to-0 triumph over Mercer.

The conference had a number of individual star performers in Saturday's round of conquests. Bitterbug Kellough scored two touchdowns in Tulane's triumph, one on a 106-yard dash. Ken Kavanaugh, Louisiana State end and leading All-America candidate, snagged passes for his team's two touchdowns as the Tigers defeated Vanderbilt 12 to 6.

RACES 66 YARDS.

Vassa Cate, Georgia's captain, raced 66 yards to score in the Bulldogs' victory, but losing status of 13-14 against New York University. Bob Fox, of Tennessee, sprinted 70 yards for a touchdown.

Those were just a few of the many individual honors passed around, but from a team standpoint a major share of the laurels had to be handed to Georgia's Bulldogs. Georgia outplayed a highly favored New York University eleven, had a decisive edge in the statistics and only two unsuccessful field goal attempts kept the Southerners from victory.

Alabama's Crimson Tide, bouncing back after a defeat by Tennessee, scored in the first period to turn back a stubborn Mississippi State roster, 14 to 0. Florida's Gators roostered to a 14-to-0 win over Maryland. Sewanee defeated Southwestern 6 to 0 for its second straight decision.

This week's bill-of-fare:

Tennessee-Louisiana State at Baton Rouge.

Kentucky-Alabama at Birmingham.

Mississippi-Vanderbilt at Memphis.

Georgia Tech-Duke at Atlanta.

Florida-South Carolina at Columbia.

Mississippi State-Birmingham-Southern at Starkville.

Sewanee-Chattanooga at Chattanooga.

Auburn-Boston College at Boston.

Georgia-Mercer at Athens. (Friday).

Kellogg's 106-Yd. Run Just Short of Record

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 29.—(P)—"Bitterbug" Bob Kellogg's 106-yard runback of a University of Mississippi kickoff yesterday for Tulane was only a few yards short of the best in the record books.

The 160-pound Tulane halfback took Willis Gladding's kick behind his goal line the third quarter and dashed through the entire Ole Miss team for the Green Wave's second touchdown in its 18-6 victory.

Edmund Jack Burke, of Ole Miss, ran back an Alabama kickoff for a record 109 yards in 1931. The best in 1938 was 108 yards by J. A. Thompson of Edmond Teachers.

Cornell's Only Major Unbeaten and Untied Eleven in East

SOONERS, IRISH, VOLKS AND AGGIES STAY IN RUNNING

Michigan Team Also Continues To Make Impressive Showings.

By BILL BONI.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(P)—Cornell's big Red football team today had struck home a telling blow in behalf of the Ivy league, which once ruled the college roost but in recent years has had to look back on its glorious past rather than at any current achievements for justification of its place among the gridiron's elite.

By coming from behind to bounce Ohio State's big Buckeyes out of the all-winning class, 23-14, the Cornell gridders wrote a major chapter into their own history book and gained the outstanding triumph of the last October Saturday. Such teams as Tennessee, Michigan, Texas Aggies and Southern California added to their reputations and defeats of Pennsylvania, Oregon and Mississippi further cleared the national picture, but it was Cornell that dominated the proceedings.

As the pigskin parade now heads into the last half of the season, Cornell stands as the only unbeaten and untied team of major rank in the east, and Duquesne, 13-0 winner over Texas Tech on Friday, is a step behind. With them in the race to make this week's national top 10 are Michigan, lone all-winning Big Ten survivor, Notre Dame, Oklahoma and Nebraska in the midwest; Tennessee, Tulane, Kentucky, North Carolina, Duke and Louisiana State, in the south; Texas Aggies, in the southwest, and Southern California, U. C. L. A. and Oregon State on the Pacific coast.

CORNELL COMEBACK.

Ithaca old grads will be hot-stopping for years to come over that Cornell comeback. Jarred to their roots by Ohio State's marches that covered a total of 160 yards, the Cornellians cut Walt Scholl, a sub halfback, loose for one touchdown; sent Scholl back to pitch to Jack Borham for a 64-yard scoring play; got their deciding margin on a virtual one-man drive by Hal McCullough, tackled on a surprise in the midwest; Tennessee, Tulane, Kentucky, North Carolina, Duke and Louisiana State, in the south; Texas Aggies, in the southwest, and Southern California, U. C. L. A. and Oregon State on the Pacific coast.

Beaten even more decisively than Cornell were two other Ivy leaguers. Yale was given a fine exhibition of the Ten Hammers as Michigan's backfield averaged better than 11 yards in 18 trips, which included a 59-yard romp to one of his three touchdowns, to bring the Maize and Blue a 27-7 victory, and Penn., which had hoped to battle Cornell for the league title, fell a 30-6 victim to an equally impressive performance by North Carolina's Jim (Sweet) Lalanne, who threw three touchdown passes, scored one himself, and held the ball for Harry Dunkle's field goal.

Meanwhile, Notre Dame, an easy winner over Navy the week before, won another of those headline decisions. On a 19-yard runback by Bill Kerr of a Carnegie Tech fumble, Lou Zontini's extra-point kick and Center John McIntyre's blocking of the Tartan try for point, the Irish downed Carnegie Tech, 7-6, for five straight triumphs by a total margin of 15 points.

Oklahoma and Nebraska, both unbeaten but both tied in their openers, marched side by side toward a clash for Big Six honors. The Sooners, with Beryl Clark accounting for three scores, rolled over Oklahoma State by 41-0 to a game that cost them injuries to three key men, and Nebraska, on Hermie Rohrig's 80-yard punt runback and two 24-yard reverses by Butch Luther, got by Kansas State for a 25-9 triumph.

In addition to Penn's thumping defeat, the only eastern surprise was the decisiveness of Fordham's 27-13 victory over Pitt and Clemson's feat in walloping Navy, 15-7, despite the absence of its big threat, Banks McFadden. Vince Denney was Fordham's hero as he recovered the fumble to set up the Rams' first score, took a 48-yard pass from Jim Blumenstock for another, and carried over the deciding one on a 99-yard gallop after taking Dick Cassiano's fumble out of the air on the Fordham.

Clemson stopped the Midlands clock while scoring on its only completed forward pass and a 48-yard "long-gainer" that included a lateral.

Next Saturday's program, in addition to Tennessee-L. S. U. and Army-Notre Dame, will present Cornell-Columbia, Princeton-Harvard in the Big Three's first clash, and Yale-Dartmouth in the east; Missouri-Nebraska, Michigan-Illinois and Oklahoma-Iowa State in the midwest; Alabama-Kentucky and Duke-Georgia Tech, in the south; Texas Aggies-Arkansas in the southwest, and Oregon State-Southern California, U. C. L. A. and Stanford-Santa Clara on the west coast.

ALL IN THE GAME

There probably is nothing anyone can do about it, but Mal Stevens was the instigator of all the bad blood with his trumped-up charges of early in the week which figures completely disproved.

Stevens has libeled a Georgia team which next year plays two games in the east. He has created an impression that Georgia is a team which uses underhand tactics. And yet there was no roughing penalty, not one, in the game against Georgia.

It is suspected that Stevens was afraid he might take another licking from a Georgia team—he took five in a row at Yale—and that he was covering up for himself.

At any rate, it was a shoddy piece of work to pull on a young coaching staff. He never did any talking while at Yale. But, figuring he had the upper hand at N. Y. U., he took full advantage of it.

It didn't make Stevens any too popular with the better eastern writers and certainly if he ever comes south with a team, he may get a dose of his own medicine.

GEORGIA LOOKS AHEAD.

Coach Butts is now looking ahead to the Mercer game. He figures Mercer must be pretty good to hold Tennessee to 17 points. The Bears and the Bulldogs tangle Friday at Athens. Kimsey and Malone are out for the game.

LEGACY OF LOVE

Rita Misses Roger In Los Angeles,
After a Trip From Palm Springs

By KATHRN BEMIS.

SYNOPSIS. Rita Rhodes, heir to a large fortune, wonders what is wrong with her as she and Preston Meeker sit in a Pasadena garden. The third man to ask her to break their engagement. As he leaves, a man in a clown costume appears, saying, "It's a darn shame! I'm at your service and you're going to see a lot of me." Rita's perennially young mother Delores cables Will not Green, her fourth husband, from Paris that she is divorcing him just at Rita recognizes the voice of Stanton, the new chauffeur engaged by Green, as that of the clown. She asks him to explain. He says he can't yet but he loves her. She is disconsolate when he quits to sell automobiles. Green commits suicide, having lost Rita's entire fortune, and Roger Brewster's mother Selia asks her to be her social secretary. Roger introduces Tom Cleveland, whose grandfather left millions, and Rita is amazed and indignant, for Tom is Stanton. Eva Sheen has her cap set for Tom who asks Rita to trust him until he can explain. Rita finds a man shot to death on a club's beach and picks up a cigarette case there bearing Tom's initials. She mails it to him and is convinced he is guilty when he phones that he is going away. Eva says she saw Tom in Sun Valley and intimates that the apple she is wearing is his engagement ring. While Rita is protesting to Roger for his giving the impression they are engaged, he kisses her as Tom appears in the doorway. As she is recovering from a riding accident Rita finally says yes to one of Roger's many proposals. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XXIII.

"Roger's the man I'm engaged to," Rita told him bluntly.

"But you met me only this morning, beloved," he said, for her ears alone.

Her cheeks reddened. She laughed derisively. "That's the way it goes. Maybe fate had a hand in it."

She pedaled fast, scooted past her mother and Selia and jumped off her machine far up ahead beside a fragrant incense bush. She snatched off a cluster of golden blossoms, stuck them in her hair. Delores rode up to her swiftly, leaped to the ground with, "For an engaged girl, Rita, you're making a regular show of yourself—and a perfect fool of me!"

Rita looked this angry mother of hers straight in the eyes. Bitterly. Was it then to be cruel battle between them from now on? How—ridiculous! Was this the pretty, merry-minded creature who had brightened her childhood?

And suddenly, Rita felt about as lonely as she ever had—as if a lovely soft light in her life had forever dimmed.

Rita continued to gaze at Delores in disbelief, thoroughly resentful. Then abruptly, her heart softened. This middle-aged woman, an, fighting so pathetically to hold a rapid romance—she pitied her.

"I think you're a bore," Rita told her frankly. "Really, what you can see in him."

Harry was now riding up with Selia, and Rita could not finish. So she called out breezily, "Race you to the corner, Rita! And away she and Selia flew on their bicycles, leaving Delores to captivate the crestfallen man beside her.

At the corner Selia and Rita jumped off their wheels and sat down to rest in the shade of an old palm. They could see that Delores was detaining Harry up the road, making him pick great bunches of rose verbenas that clung picturesquely to the hillside.

Selia tucked a gray lock under the crimson scarf tied around her head, and said seriously, "Frankly, Rita, I'm worried over Roger. I know it would please him if you made a surprise visit to town. You could take the morning plane, walk into his office, and insist he stop this exaggerated flare for business—come back with you for a week."

"Aren't you borrowing trouble, Selia? Isn't Roger trying to be different? Now that his father's gone?"

"Yes, I know. But it isn't like Roger. Will you go—just to please me?"

"Why, of course, if you wish it, Selia—although he's probably too busy to think of taking a real vacation."

"Oh, you can change that. It's not natural for a man to drive himself so hard."

"His father did," Rita reminded her.

"That was different. Dain was a human dynamo—wore himself out. Rita thought, "Oh, inconsistent woman! She'll have Roger back in his playboy ways if she's not careful. But I suppose it's up to me to talk to Roger."

The sun was hot, a magnificent flame of power overhead, but enervating to the two older women, whose diet never allowed decent hunger to be appeased. When Rita and Selia rejoined Delores and Harry, Selia suggested turning back, and Rita was in full accord.

Selia and Delores looked wilted with weariness, which contrasted unfavorably with Rita's pink freshness. But Rita, too, had had enough cycling for one day, and was ready to call it a trip.

On the way back a freakish gusty wind from the mountains stirred up the sand, twisting and bending the cacti, the palms and yuccas. Cottontail rabbits, chipmunks and gophers were scurrying to cover, a sure sign that nature was on the rampage. The little party of four, pedaling laboriously back to the hotel, found conversation impossible. Sand was in their eyes, their ears, their nostrils; they were bent nearly double over the handlebars, using all their strength to make the wheels go round.

Back in her room at last, Rita shut the door on the foolishly self-centered Delores, the son-complexed Selia, and the fire of conquest in Harry's eyes. The creepy-looking eyes of Harry Handy. Thank goodness, she was flying to town in the morning, getting away from all this Palm Spring mixup for a few hours!

But by morning things were still complicated for Rita. The persistent Harry Handy decided he had business in Los Angeles, and would accompany her on the plane. She was highly incensed, and Delores was nearly desperate, but nothing it seemed could be done to prevent a man from making a reservation on the morning plane if he so desired.

Rita would have postponed her trip and allowed Harry to go on without her, but Selia insisted that nothing must interfere with Rita's plans to see Roger. Selia was even willing to take a chance on Harry as Rita's companion.

So, much to the consternation and chagrin of Delores, the plane took off with Rita and Harry securely belted in their seats. The apricot-tinted sky, slashed here and there with orange and crimson and purple, made a panorama beyond description. But Rita was only vaguely conscious of it, so filled was she with a peculiar presentiment of pending evil.

She wished she had not started away this morning. But here she was high in the air, and soon she was smiling at the pretty hostess, and drinking tea with Harry, being halfway civil to him in spite of the utter contempt she now held for him.

She wondered if he possessed second sight when he insisted upon accompanying her in the taxicab to Roger's office, in a drab section of the city. Roger was out. At the satisfied smirk this caused on Harry's face, Rita was angry, and nearly told him to go about his own business and leave her alone. It was even more aggravating when Mr. Lee, the bookkeeper, said that Roger had gone away for the week-end.

"How provoking!" Rita exclaimed. "He's probably reached the Springs by this time—and here I am!"

Mr. Lee coughed discreetly, gave her a sharp look over the rim of his horn-rimmed spectacles, acted embarrassed, but explained nothing further. At the moment, she thought this odd but later, when she had obtained certain facts, she understood how difficult it was for Mr. Lee to satisfy her curiosity, and be loyal to his employer as well.

"Where to now?" asked Harry in an annoyingly amused tone. "With the boy friend out of the running, my opportunity has come. I'm angry!"

"No, I'm not!" she said decisively. "I'll have to go back to the Springs at once!"

"They were walking toward the waiting taxicab now. She got in and Harry gave the driver the name of a popular restaurant and climbed in beside her.

"But I'm not lunching—I'm going back to . . ."

"Rita, darling—don't be too sure your Roger is where you think he is. You women have too much faith sometimes. You'd better take up with the man at the phone call—then we'll get something to eat. Later, we'll motor back to the desert in a taxi. Will that do?"

She shrugged her shoulders under her black suit jacket, caught a glimpse in the driver's mirror of her haggard face under her black straw sailor, and knew she was showing too much anxiety over Roger. But why hadn't Roger let her know he was going to the Springs for the week-end. Now, she'd made this fool trip and had to be pestered by this man Harry!

"No use being so disappointed, little one," he told her now in that oily tone of his. "We'll have a good time—and let the world roll by."

"Yes—that about expresses your attitude toward everything in general, doesn't it?" she said resentfully. "You came to town on business—please don't let me detain you."

"Business? Only the business of escorting you around, my dear. You sensed that, didn't you? Pretty women fascinate me."

There was more of this sort of talk on his part without much response from Rita. She decided to watch her chance and slip away from him. When he went to telephone would be ideal.

But as if he suspected that she might play some such trick on him, he had a waiter plug in an instrument beside their table at the restaurant, and there was no convenient way to get rid of him for the present.

She had just about decided to snub him directly, pretend she had an appointment at a beauty parlor, when he began talking into the mouthpiece. He mentioned the restaurant.

"Come on down here, Eva," he said quickly, "and meet a friend of mine."

This made it even more imperative for Rita to get away. Eva Sheen indeed!

Then Harry asked impatiently, "Tom Cleveland? Don't know him. Well—bring him, if you must."

He hung up, turned to the tense Rita.

"Eva says there's a Tom Cleveland with her. She's bringing him along. Ever hear of him?"

"Yes—I've heard of him," Rita said, avoiding Harry's searching eyes.

FIVE SCHOOLBOYS

KILLED BY BLAST

Bodies Mangled by Explosion in Mine Area; Death Agent Unknown.

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., Oct. 29. (P)—Five Rock Springs schoolboys were killed today by an explosion in a mining area. Sheriff M. J. Dankowski said he did not determine what caused the blast. He speculated that the five might have found some dynamite caps or black powder around one of the nearby coal mines. The victims were so badly torn that identification was possible only through examination of bits of clothing. Those identified were Gordon Grant, 9; his brother, O'Dea, 11, and David Chamberlain, 7. The other two victims were tentatively identified as Donald Cooper and Pino Herria. The windows of several residences were broken by the explosion. The sheriff and Coroner J. Warden began an investigation to determine what caused the blast. They said they had not learned of any other boys' being with the five who were killed.

Marks Halloween Favors for Shut-Ins

Thousands Jam Treasure Island For International Exhibition Finale

Sufficient Funds Have Not Been Raised for 'Successful Reopening' Next Year, Though Situation May Change, Say Officials.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29. (P)—Treasure Island was jammed today with thousands of visitors for the finale of the Golden Gate International exposition, which officials said had been unable to raise sufficient funds for "successful reopening" next year. Total paid attendance for the western world's fair, which opened February 18, reached 10,461,502 at 4 p. m., after ferries and automobiles had poured 112,973 visitors onto the man-made, 400-acre island since 6 a. m. today. While crowds coursed through the gateway and exhibits for last looks at the $50,000,000 exposition, a special fund-raising committee met to decide whether the fair would reopen for four months next year. Dan E. London, chairman of the committee, announced after the meeting that "the 1940 Exposition, Inc., has been unable to raise sufficient funds for successful reopening of the exposition in 1940." He added, however, that meetings of "other groups the first of this week may change the situation."

374,525 THRONG FAIR AS CLOSING NEARS
NEW YORK, Oct. 29. (P)—Today was "au revoir" Sunday at the New York World's Fair where the "World of Tomorrow" will step into a temporary "World of Yesterday" at 2 a. m. on November 1. As week-end crowds pushed total attendance figures above the 25,000,000 figure, officials reiterated promises that next year's presentation would be dedicated to fun, with less emphasis on culture. The fair established its second largest attendance today, and police reserves were called out to handle crowds. By 4 p. m. (Atlanta time) turnstiles had clicked in 374,525 paid admissions. This attendance was exceeded only on September 3, when 492,644 bought tickets. The fair still owes some $25,000,000 but has paid off millions in debts. And officials hope to retire the indebtedness next year.

HAMP W. GROOVER DIES IN SAVANNAH

Injured on Leaping From Burning Truck.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 29. (P)—Hamp W. Groover, Liberty county naval stores operator and farmer, died in a local hospital today of injuries received when he leaped from a burning truck near Hinesville Friday night. Smiley, other occupant of the truck suffered only minor injuries when he jumped from the vehicle. The men leaped from the moving truck when it suddenly burst into flames on the highway. Cause of the fire was not determined. Groover is survived by his wife, nine children, and 30 grandchildren. Funeral services will be held Tuesday.

HOUSING AUTHORITY TO CRATE CAPITAL

Will Offer $770,000,000 in Short Term Note to Private Investors.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29. (P)—Administrator Nathan Straus announced today that the United States Housing Authority would invite the private money market to invest in $770,000,000 of short-term loan clearance and low-cost housing securities during the next calendar year. For example, he said a local Housing Authority planning a $1,000,000 structure would obtain from USHA a commitment of federal funds to cover 90 per cent of the cost. It would then offer to the lowest interest bidder on the money market $1,000,000 of non-callable securities to mature within six months. Just before the date of maturity USHA would deposit with the nearest federal reserve bank $1,000,000 to redeem the securities. Straus estimated that local Housing Authorities would save $14,400,000 during the year that private capital financed the $770,000,000 of contemplated construction. This, he added, would result from anticipated sales of the securities for 2 per cent less interest than the usual 3 to 3 1/2 per cent charged by USHA when projects were financed wholly from government loans, repayable within 20 years. The notes, he said, would be exempt from federal taxes, and in most instances, from state taxes. The first issue of the new temporary loan notes, he said, would be offered to the public shortly. They will total more than $50,000,000.

POPE CONSECRATES 12 NEW BISHOPS

Two Americans and First Negroes Included.

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 29. (P)—Consecrating 12 new missionary bishops in a solemn ceremony in St. Peter's Square today praised those states where morality and justice prevail and tyranny is unknown. His words echoed sentiments expressed Friday in the first encyclical of his reign in which he criticized governments in which civil authority "puts itself in the place of the Almighty and elevates the state or group into the last end of life."

"Happy indeed are those states which enact laws inspired by the doctrine of the gospel and do not refuse to pay public homage to the majesty of Christ the King," the Pontiff said today, during the service consecrating as bishops two Americans, and, for the first time in church history, two negroes. "In such nations the interests and mutual relations of citizens are truly harmonized according to the standard of morality and justice," he said. The Americans elevated were the Most Rev. Louis L. Morrow, 46, of Weatherford, Texas, and the Most Rev. F. O'Shea, of New York.

The negroes made bishops were the Most Rev. Joseph Kiwanuka, a native of Uganda, and the Most Rev. Ignatius Ramarosandratana from Madagascar. Both were assigned dioceses in their native lands.

MILLEN MART PLANS ANNIVERSARY SALE

SEALED BIDS for the furnishing of all material, transportation, tools and equipment for the construction and completion of the Industrial Laboratory Unit and Southern Regional Laboratory, located on the south side of Robert E. Lee Boulevard, between Soanish, Ford Boulevard and H Street, New Orleans, Louisiana, or the Bureau of Agricultural Chemistry and Engineering, U. S. Department of Agriculture, will be received until 5 o'clock P. M., Tuesday, November 14, 1939, and then publicly opened.

The work will consist of the construction of a nineteen (19) bay industrial laboratory unit located at the intersection of the above named boulevard and H Street, New Orleans, Louisiana. The work shall include the construction of a steel deck roof and continuous monolithic floor with two inches of reinforced concrete and covered with a "roofing" of two rows of intermediate steel channels spaced at 16" on center and crane rails and shall be tied to the exterior columns and to one another by means of "monolithic" fixed balconies at second floor level in alternate bays; each of the other alternate bays will have a balcony, with provisions in all bays for placing future adjustable monolithic levels of three inch intervals; all balconies will be provided with removable wire mesh grille and guard rail with a height of 36" or more; and the necessary electrical plumbing and heating equipment. The Solvent Storage Building will be approximately 22'-0" wide and 10'-0" in height; concrete foundations, brick walls and a steel deck roof which will be approximately 11'-0" x 19'-0". Award of the contract will be made only to a contractor who can show sufficient experience, financial resources, and who can execute the work within the time specified and payment bond of 50% of cost to insure the satisfactory installation of the work. Plans and specifications may be examined free of charge at the office of the Chief Division of Purchase, Sales and Traffic, Room 1870 South Building, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. The drawings and specifications may be had upon application to the Chief Division of Purchase, Sales and Traffic, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. Reference must be made to U. S. D. A. No. 7191. If drawings in case of inaccessibility are not returned to and received by the Bureau of Agricultural Chemistry and Engineering, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., within 60 days after the bids are opened, the drawings will be forfeited to the Government.

DRIVER IS KILLED IN CLAYTON CRASH

Three Injured in Head-On Collision on New Macon Highway.

A negro automobile driver was killed and three other persons were injured in a head-on collision between two cars yesterday afternoon on the new Macon highway one mile south of Rex, in Clayton county, state troopers reported.

Arthur Ragland, 40, of Stockbridge, died instantly in the wreck, and Tony Minder, 50, another negro, also of Stockbridge, a passenger in his car, suffered minor cuts and bruises. Troopers J. E. Davis and G. W. Goss said the driver of the other car was Claude C. Langford, 65, of 1210 Druid Place, and that H. P. Jack, 60, of 835 Oak street, was a passenger. Both were injured but neither was seriously hurt. The officers said that Langford's car sidwiped another machine and then crashed head-on into the car containing the two negroes.
